TWIN CITIES AREA CRIME DROPS 7%

BY NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Serious crimes dropped 7 per cent in the Twin Cities area in 1976 compared to 1975, according to the FBI's annual Uniform Crime Reports, released today. Benton Harbor logged 228 fewer serious crimes in 1976 than in 1975, according to the report. But, Benton Harbor ranked third nationally among cities its size for the most crimes committed in 1976.

According to the report, 1976 crime totals fell 7.5 percent in Benton Harbor; 2.1 percent in Benton Township; 9.1 percent in St. Joseph; and 30.2 percent in St. Joseph Township.

A decline in reported thefts was the apparent reason for falling crime rates in Benton Harbor and in the Twin Cities as a whole.

The decline in the Twin Cities crime totals compares to a less than 1 percent national increase from 1975 to 1976. South Berrien crime is on the increase, according to the 304-page report. Serious crimes in Niles increased 20.9 percent and the rate in Niles Township was up 6.4 percent.

In the report, municipalities are rated by a "Total Crime In-

Despite Reduction, Benton Harbor Ranks Third Highest In U.S. For Cities Its Size

The index is the sum of the reported homicides, forcible rapes, robberies, aggravated assaults, burglaries, larcenies and auto thefts. Benton Harbor's 1976 index was 2,788. Only two cities with populations of 10,000-25,000 had higher rates, according to the report. San Pablo, Calif., a city of 21,695 north of Oakland, had an index of 3,532, the highest in the country for a city in the 10,000-25,000 population group. The Fort Lauderdale suburb of Oakland Park, Fla., (Population 16,261) had an index of 2,967. Benton Harbor, with a population of 16,481, was in third place with its 2,788 index.

Benton Township's index was 2082; St. Joseph's was 498; and St. Joseph Township's was 240 in 1976.

The sum of reported serious crimes reported by Benton Harbor, Benton Township, St. Joseph and St. Joseph Township totaled 5,898 in 1976, compared with 6,035 in 1975. Benton Harbor improved its crime rate with fewer police personnel, the report stated.

On Oct. 31, 1975, Benton Harbor had 48 total police employees. On Oct. 31, 1976, the number had fallen to 38.

Benton Township enlarged its number of police employees from 29 in 1975 to 33 in 1976, according to the report. The number of St. Joseph police employees remained the same, 27. St. Joseph Township added an employee after 1975 and had eight employees on Oct. 31, 1976.

Niles added three police employees, bringing its total to 32. Niles Township, according to the report, halved its department size from 18 in 1975 to 9 in 1976. Chiefly responsible for the 1976 drop in Benton Harbor's crime rate appeared to be a drop of 200 reported larcenies, bringing 1976's total larcenies to 1,646. Also, there were 36 fewer robberies reported in Benton Harbor, according to the FBI report.

Shoplifting and all other thefts except auto theft are included in the category of larceny, the report stated. Larcenies reported to Benton Township Police in 1976 were about equal to 1975's reports, but there were 16 fewer robberies in the Township in 1976, the report stated.

Most of the drop in 1976 in St. Joseph and St. Joseph Township can also be attributed to a decline in larcenies of 51 and 90, respectively.

Judge Orders New Split Of $2.77 Million

By LARRY MACINTYRE
Staff Writer

GRAND RAPIDS — Citing a "crying need" for repairs to Benton Harbor Area Schools, U.S. District Judge Noel Fox yesterday ordered a new formula for distributing $2.77 million in public works money in Berrien County.

Fox's order was directed at the U.S. Economic Development Administration which disburses the money.

Fox rescinded previous allocations for public works including $1,166,000 for construction of a south county building in Niles and $1.6 million to the City of Benton Harbor which was to be split 50-50 with the Benton Harbor school district.

The judge held that the EDA regulations which resulted in those allocations being made were "arbitrary and capricious." He ordered the EDA to redistribute the $2.77 million under revised guidelines that appear to heavily favor the Benton Harbor school district.

The ruling capped a three-month legal battle over how the $2.77 million should be divided among five Berrien County governmental units. The other four units fighting for a share of the money were the City of Benton Harbor, Benton Township, Niles Township, and the county government.

Fox stopped short of ordering the EDA to give all the money to the Benton Harbor school district, but he devoted much of his opinion to explaining his assertion that the Constitutional rights of Benton Harbor school children were being violated because they are forced to attend inferior schools.

"This court is presently involved in trying to determine remedies to past and present flagrant violations of the 14th Amendment" in the Benton Harbor school district, the judge wrote. He was referring to the 10-year-old Benton Harbor schools desegregation suit filed by the NAACP. Fox ruled in August that the school board was "guilty" of perpetuating a racially segregated school system.

"As the (EDA) regulations are presently interpreted, EDA would also help to perpetuate segregated conditions by refusing to channel these funds where they are most needed," Fox wrote.

"In effect, the U.S. Government has an opportunity here to advance its stated policy of preserving its citizens' 14th Amendment Constitutional rights, rights which have been denied to the children in these schools for the past 15 years."

Spending EDA funds to repair schools, Fox continued, would make available "the type of facilities so long denied these children" and "would upgrade the quality of education available to them."

The judge said Congress intended EDA public works grants to be used for reducing national unemployment and assisting state and local governments in badly needed public facilities. Aid to the school district would "clearly fulfill" the second intention, Fox said.

He said the EDA's decision last December to award $5 million in public works funds to Lake Michigan College for a community center and auditorium was a mistake, and the money should have been given to the Benton Harbor school district.

The $5 million was awarded under what has become commonly known as Round 1 of the distribution of EDA grants.

The judge's order issued yesterday does not apply to Round 1 grants, but it does freeze all $2.77 million in Round 2 grants in Berrien County.

Nevertheless, the judge called the $5 million grant a "misallocation" that was made because the EDA mistakenly assumed from the college's mailing address that it was

BH Schools Get $805,000 Grant

The Economic Development Administration has awarded a grant of $804,500 to the Benton Harbor Area Schools, Congressman Dave Stockman's office announced today.

The announcement said the funds are to be used for renovations and additions at Martin Luther King elementary school and Benton Harbor High School.

It was not immediately clear, but it was believed the grant was a portion of $2.77 million in EDA grant money that was tied up by an order of Federal District Judge Noel Fox in Grand Rapids yesterday. The judge's order instructed EDA to produce a new formula for distributing the $2.77 so as to favor the Benton Harbor schools.

Edward Troffer, Benton Harbor group director for operations and facilities, said the high school work would include installation of an elevator shaft for the physically handicapped, replacement of wooden sash windows in the old section of the building and remodeling of the counseling and administrative offices.

The Martin Luther King project involves construction of a "community room" with gymnasium and kitchen facilities, he said.

Glenlord Smashup Warrant Is Issued

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A warrant was issued yesterday in Berrien District Court charging Kriseda K. Knitter of Stevensville with negligent homicide in connection with a car-truck crash last Thursday in which two people were killed.

The warrant, authorized by Prosecutor John Smietanka, alleges Mrs. Knitter drove her car "in a careless or negligent manner but not willfully or wantonly" to cause the accident.

Killed in the accident on Glenlord Road at the I-94 overpass in Lincoln Township were Ladene Ruth Korfman, 17, of 2656 Lake Bluff Terrace, St. Joseph Township, and James Aubrey Flenor, 29, of 1616 Cherry St., Niles.

Mrs. Knitter, 33, of 4188 Elizabeth Drive, was expected to be arraigned in district court today, according to Smietanka.

The warrant charges only one count of negligent homicide but covers the deaths of both Miss Korfman and Flenor. Smietanka said.

The warrant alleges Mrs. Knitter "backed her vehicle into Glenlord Road, without due caution and failed to yield the right of way to an oncoming vehicle on that highway, a 1968 Volkswagen, which caused a collision between the Volkswagen and a 1977 Kenworth semi-tractor, causing the deaths..."

Conviction of a negligent homicide charge, which is a felony, carries a maximum penalty of up to two years imprisonment and/or a $2,000 fine. The warrant was issued by Judge Hugh W. Black.

Berrien Sheriff's Deputy Tom Page reported Miss Korfman, traveling alone westbound on Glenlord, apparently swerved into the path of the eastbound truck while attempting to avoid Mrs. Knitter's car, which was allegedly backing from a driveway.

Page reported Miss Korfman's Volkswagen glanced off the rear of Mrs. Knitter's car, then hit the truck head-on and came to rest against a concrete abutment at the west end of the I-94 overpass, where it was struck a second time as the semi also hit the bridge. The truck had just left the Bendix Hydraulics Division plant on Red Arrow Highway with 40,000 pounds of auto parts bound for Jackson, Tenn.

Flenor was the driver of the truck. A passenger in the truck, Larry C. Moore, 37, of South Bend, was treated for minor injuries at Memorial Hospital and released.

Page said Mrs. Knitter told him she had stopped at the Lydia Gunther residence, 1883 Glenlord, to buy tomatoes and was backing out of the driveway when she saw the approaching truck. Mrs. Knitter said she was pulling back into the driveway to avoid a collision with the truck when her car was struck by the Korfman auto, according to Page.

The deputy said Mrs. Knitter reported she did not see the Volkswagen until the collision. Miss Korfman was driving home from Lakeshore High School, where she was a senior, when the accident occurred.

Smietanka declined comment on the issuance of the warrant, but asked for public help in locating the driver of a brown pickup truck which was reportedly in the area at the time of the accident. Smietanka said authorities believe the driver may have been a witness to the accident.

'Gun Rule' Figure Due In Trial Court

The wounded burglary suspect who has helped trigger a controversy over the Benton Harbor Police Department's firearms rules, was bound over to Berrien Circuit Court Tuesday on a charge of breaking and entering the house where police believe he was shot.

Steve Lewis Wynn, 18, 793 Pearl St., was bound over for breaking and entering a house at 880 Ogden Ave. He was arrested Sept. 12 at Mercy Hospital where he had sought treatment of a gunshot wound to the hand.

Patrolman Lloyd Hughes later was placed on 15-day suspension for firing a shot at a suspect at the Ogden address in violation of department gun regulations that have been described as "restrictive" by other policemen.

At the time of his latest arrest, Wynn was free on bond on another breaking and entering charge.

Asst. Prosecutor Chris Dunfield said Wynn agreed to waive examination yesterday after an agreement was reached for plea negotiations at the Circuit Court level on the two breaking and entering charges.

Wynn is awaiting Circuit Court trial on a charge of breaking and entering an occupied dwelling May 25.

He was bound over yesterday by District Judge John T. Hammond. Wynn failed to post $10,000 bond in connection with the Ogden Avenue break-in and is being held in jail.

Hughes said he had gone to 880 Ogden on report of a breaking and entering in progress. Hughes said he looked into a window and a suspect then fled out the back of the house. Hughes said he fired one shot after yelling, "Police officer, halt."

The suspect continued running after the shot was fired.

Police Chief Andrew Rodez said Hughes was suspended 15 days for violating a departmental order that permits use of firearms only against a known felon who used or is attempting to use deadly force in commission of a crime when all other attempts to prevent escape have failed.

Rodez said it was not established that a shot from Hughes' gun hit Wynn.

Would-Be Publisher Loses $35,000 Job

DETROIT (AP) — A city aide who sought $800,000 in federal funds to start a third daily newspaper in Detroit has been fired for not doing his job.

Donald Wilson, whose salary was $35,000 a year as the city's public information director, planned to secure the federal money through a program giving private businesses cash to help train the unemployed.

Wilson charged Tuesday that The Detroit News, which first printed the story of Wilson's newspaper plans, criticized him because he is black.

He also said Mayor Coleman T. Young, who also is black, fired him because of the newspaper's critical articles.

However, a spokesman for Young said Wilson was fired because he did not perform his job adequately.

The News said Tuesday Wilson's charges against the newspaper were "totally untrue."

Wilson was director of public information for seven months.

Elizabeth (Elsa) Rhodes, a waitress at Tosi's restaurant, Stevensville, for the past 28 years, has received a second place award in a national contest to find the waiter or waitress with the longest years of service.

Mrs. Rhodes, 61, won $500 for placing second in the contest conducted by the National Restaurant News, a national food service industry publication.

Mrs. Rhodes, a Muskegon native, has been a professional waitress for 63 years and her years of waiting on tables go back to the early 1900's at hotels and restaurants spanning the country from Saginaw in San Francisco. The story of Mrs. Rhodes' career was featured in the May 19 edition of The Herald-Palladium.

First place winner in the national contest was Nathan Recht, a waiter at Ancon's Miami International Airport Hotel Roof restaurant, Recht, 51, who received $1,000, has been a waiter 70 years.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Raising The Retirement Age

Bismarck, Germany's Iron Chancellor of the late 19th and early 20th centuries, probably contributed as much to the unification of his country through the political process as did his illustrious predecessors on the field of battle.

In drafting a constitution, among other things, he inserted a clause requiring the government's military and civilian employees to retire at age 65.

This cutoff point eventually became standard for public and private employment throughout most of the industrialized world.

With few exceptions it is the departure point for most pension plans.

As late as 1974, according to the public opinion polls, by a narrow 45-40 percent plurality, the 65-year limit enjoyed U.S. approval.

The 1974 poll represented a decline in confirming sentiment from prior years when the idea prevailed that it was a good idea to retire the older worker on a decent pension so as to make room for younger people to enter the work force and to move up in the managerial ranks.

Since that poll was taken, opinion has shifted dramatically to the opposite direction. Today, by margins of three or four to one, depending upon who is sampling the audience, the feeling prevails that age 65 is an arbitrary criterion if the person is capable of performing beyond that age.

Two developments account for the shift. Unless the birth rate moves up from its dead center level, the U.S. more and more becomes an aging population. The current polls very clearly reflect the presence of this increased older numerical upsurge.

Another factor is the growing belief that retirement is exerting two undesirable side effects. It deprives an operation of the advantage of skill and experience developed over many years; and it works to the mental detriment of many persons who have known nothing but an active, productive life.

Last Friday the House of Representatives, with only four votes dissenting, sent over to the Senate a bill raising the mandatory retirement age to 70. Only employers having less than 20 persons on the payroll would be exempt. For reasons the House has yet to give there would be no limit on the federal payroll.

The House bill does not apply to certain limited employment sectors. One example would be the Michigan State Police where 55 is the compulsory withdrawal age.

The Senate has a somewhat similar version under consideration.

The Carter Administration while holding some reservations on the House action is not opposing that clear show of political strength. It is asking, however, that the effective date of any such legislation be put off for a year rather than the 180 days stated in the House bill. Another likely extension is a two-year stretch for labor-management contracts to adjust as to pension programs.

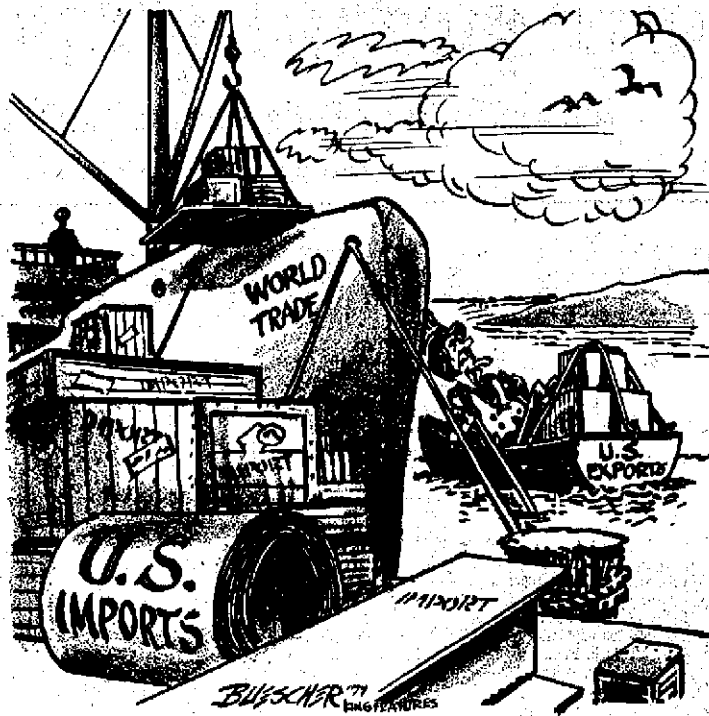

The House action stems from less than altruistic motives.

Its members are well aware how older people go to the polls in greater proportion than the younger person, and there is the need to rescue the financially flagging Social Security system by hook or crook. If more people remain at work rather than take retirement at 65, the starting point for a male under Social Security, the system may gain something of a second wind.

How a postponed retirement age will affect the Administration's goal to increase employment for the young and minorities, pension plans now in operation, and employers' operational efficiency are questions which drew little, if any, thought in the House.

The House bill does not require working past the 65th birthday, nor does it guarantee employment beyond that anniversary. The older employee can be let go if he cannot keep up with the procession.

It will, unless modified, put a premium on age holding back the advancement of younger blood.

PROPERTY TAXES RAISED AGAIN!

Editor,
Here we go again! Property taxes raised again! It was so nice that our township treasurer announced it at the recent Monday night meeting, "before we get our Dec. 1 tax bills, and call raising hell."

Four per cent raise in St. Joseph township! This means the school system will get additional monies on top of the recent millage increase. No wonder the school board was so magnanimous in reducing their original request. No one can convince me they were not aware of this additional tax money coming in.

One question, Mr. DeVries. Why didn't you break the increase four or five weeks sooner? Surely this didn't just pop up.

This is one more instance, from local to federal government, why taxpayers are fed up with politicians.

"OFFENSIVE, ARCHAIC" AND "INAPPROPRIATE"

Editor,
There are three specific areas in which you fall short of being the responsive, responsible newspaper that you need to be in order to serve this community:

1. Your arbitrary use of the word "adopted" when referring to someone who apparently is not the biological offspring of his or her parents. You don't serve when you do this, or better put, your own interests may be served at the expense of another's human and basic right to tell his or her story of origination when and if they choose.

2. The archaic policy of referring to married women as if she did not have a name of her own. She does, and I find that many people do want to be called by their name. You need to begin to acknowledge peoples' individuality and identity — it is their right.

3. Your treatment of potentially sensational material is most offensive and absolutely ignores the humanity that you pretend to serve. Whatever titillation your front-page "sex-change" article prompted seemed to be at the expense of the humanity you don't serve. Regarding the "spectacular" Glenford crash — I find the word in quotes implying something appealing in nature and designed to appeal. Considering the tragic results, "spectacular" seems inappropriate.

Now, let's hear from you, Editor, ... your silence says much, and it has been duly noted by us all.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Children are rarely designated as "adopted" — only when it is germane to the sense of a newspaper article, perhaps once or twice a year.

REPLIES TO LETTER ON 'GAY' OPPONENTS

Editor,
After reading a letter in your paper, I was reminded of the foolish little dog who upon hearing the rumble of the approaching train, ran out stiff-legged, hackles raised, and with bared teeth tried to literally bark this iron monster out of existence. "Sound silly? Not half as foolish and futile as the yipping of some humans."

I refer to the letter in the 9/16/77 edition of The Herald-Palladium submitted by Bradley Bollin. He starts out by classifying Anita Bryant and all who are similarly minded, as bigots. That includes a lot of people, Mr. Bollin. In fact, that includes me, my wife, my pastor, some of my neighbors, friends, a whole host of true believers and last but not most important of all, God Himself.

You see, Mr. Bollin, God hates the sin of Sodomy with a holy passion. He has and will yet destroy all who persist in this unholy practice. Every born-again believer hates every sin God hates, and with good reason in this instance. These characters practice what they profess, and if they don't have a willing partner they go after the unwilling. The news media al-

Do You REMEMBER?

— 10 Years Ago —

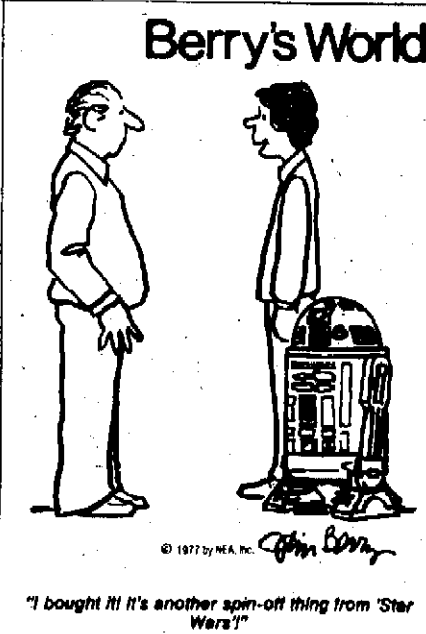

All Faith Memorial chapel is to be constructed at Camp Madron, Boy Scout camp near Buchanan. The chapel will be located in the woods near the Oaks campsite that was added to the camp in 1938 as a memorial to Phillip Upton, St. Joseph. The basic structure will be 18 feet wide and 15 feet deep and will soar to a height of almost 20 feet. Seating for 250 will be provided, and the area will be floodlighted for evening services. The fund to build the chapel was started with contributions to the memory of Jack Dean, Jr., of Berrien Springs; Donald Blek, Dwaigiac; Kenneth Blake, Buchanan, and Waller Brulowski Jr., Niles.

— 25 Years Ago —

A distinguished American woman, Mrs. Ralph Church, congresswoman from the 13th district of Illinois, will appear in the twin cities on Oct. 10. Mrs. Church will appear at a dinner in the First Congregational church, Benton Harbor, under the auspices of the Berrien county Republican committee. Mrs. Church was elected from the 13th district of Illinois to the 82nd Congress with a plurality of 81,563 — the highest in any election for Congress since 1942.

— 50 Years Ago —

In response to an insistent demand that steps be taken to combat and alleviate the smoke evil in Benton Harbor, the city commission last week began to inaugurate smoke abatement legislation in the city immediately. The ordinance already framed for adoption corresponds in its major details to the ordinance adopted about 10 years ago and now in effect in Chicago. The ordinance will be unique in that its enforcement will be placed in the hands of the city's public health officials.

Trying To Reduce The Paper Blizzard

Of all the byproducts of government, none causes more public consternation than the steady outpouring of paper. In addition to countless tons of forms, reports and secret messages, federal departments produce 57,000 pages of regulations every year. As the volume of printed material grows, the cost to churn it out increases and so does the anger of taxpayers who have to foot the bill.

Now Congress has taken one small step to stem the tide. As of Saturday, Oct. 1, it will cost agencies $285 per page to publish rules and notices in the Federal Register, the government's inch-thick daily directory of official regulations that most bureaucrats never read and most citizens have never heard of. Since 1935, the printing costs have been absorbed by Congress. However, "in the face of the rising price of paper," said a spokesman for the Register, "something had to be done to stop the unnecessary flow of frivolous information."

In 1946, the number of pages published in the Federal Register totaled just under 15,000. The yearly figure fell to 10,528 in 1956. But since then, it has risen steadily to an all-time high in 1976 of 57,000. Before the law requiring a service charge was passed by Congress in August, the prediction was that the annual page count would reach 100,000 by 1980.

Herbert Kaufman of the Brookings Institution has called the profusion of bureaucratic paperwork "a loathsome disease." But only time will tell if Congress' minor surgery will prove to be the proper antidote. Seasoned Washington observers are not optimistic. "Most of the agencies are not worried about where they will get the money to pay for publishing their notices," said Fred Emery, director of the Federal Register. In fact, having to pay by the page, Emery pointed out, could even heighten competition among prestige-conscious agencies for space in the Register and have the unintended effect of increasing its size.

Help On The Way For Home Buyer?

WASHINGTON — Internal documents from the files of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) reveal that the government privately confesses it has done little or nothing to enforce a 1974 federal law designed to protect home buyers and sellers against excessive settlement costs.

The HUD documents legitimately place much of the blame for years of inaction on the anti-consumer attitude embraced by the administrations of former Presidents Richard M. Nixon and Gerald R. Ford.

But the previously unpublished materials also seek to justify a current practice under which a HUD office already woefully understaffed must divide its time and personnel between real estate settlement issues and totally unrelated energy conservation concerns.

Touching off the controversy was a report recently issued by the Washington-based Housing Research Group, a unit of Ralph Nader's Center for Study of Responsive Law, which charges that HUD has failed to implement the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act, passed by Congress in late 1974 and amended in early 1976.

Although the department has 15,000 employees, "HUD has allocated three people to (work on) real estate practices — an impossibly small number to grapple with reforms in the multibillion dollar real estate industry," the Nader group told HUD Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris in a letter accompanying its critical report.

Half of that minuscule staff, one person full-time and another half-time, has been detailed to work on the problem of seeking state and local implementation of energy conservation standards for newly constructed housing, the report notes.

The critical study calls for the transfer of the energy-related activities to a separate HUD office and for expansion of the existing staff to deal with real estate settlement abuses.

HUD officials reject the argument, but they concede the legitimacy of virtually all criticisms leveled in the report. Among them:

Savings and loan associations, banks and other lenders of mortgage funds frequently require home buyers to pay for title insurance, even though it will principally protect the lenders' interest.

A Justice Department study earlier this year found a pattern of title insurers paying rebates, referral fees, commissions and kickbacks to attorneys, real estate brokers and mortgage lenders who were willing to steer customers their way.

As a result, home buyers often pay up to 10 times as much as might be reasonably charged for title searches and insurance. And those searches continue to be conducted under an antiquated, decades-old procedures despite the availability of more modern and less-expensive methods.

The federal law requires HUD to undertake a comprehensive investigation of current real estate practices and to recommend proposed changes which could save home buyers and sellers hundreds of millions of dollars annually.

But the report charges that HUD's "implementation of the studies expressly mandated by Congress has been tardy, slipshod and uninspired." In one case, a study due one year ago still has not been completed and the results probably won't be known until the middle of next year.

Until and unless HUD moves vigorously, there is little prospect of reforming an industry which all too often charges exorbitant prices for services which often aren't even needed.

The irony of the situation is that the purveyors of countless goods and services often costing only a few dollars now are required by law to provide guarantees, warranties and other forms of consumer protection. But the buyers and sellers of houses costing $25,000, $50,000 or more are denied those rights.

New Direction For Humanities

WASHINGTON — Joe Duffey was confirmed without a contrary peep by the Senate the other day for the job of chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities, which goes to show that being scorned for being a politician can be an asset when the judges are other politicians.

Academic purists had complained when Duffey was nominated that he wasn't scholarly enough, and besides, was forever tainted because he had actually run for political office (a Senate seat in Connecticut, which he lost). The controversy got the somewhat stuffy endowment more attention than it had had in its 11-year existence, and exposed the general tug of war which has been going on behind the scenes over its distribution of roughly $100 million a year to stimulate the American intellect.

Under its past leadership, the endowment had created the impression that it cared more for the opinions of elite institutions and financing intricate studies of limited application than reaching out to enrich the lives of masses of intelligent, if not exactly intellectual, Americans.

Duffey tactfully says the endowment should finance both specialized research by individuals or institutions and broad public participation in humanities activities. He appears, however, to be far more enthusiastic about the latter.

He does not think it is the endowment's function to subsidize an elite and thereby establish a sort of national standard of excellence. "That's a dangerous role for government," he says. "We must have a tolerance for regional differences in interests and tastes."

the public, not just some tenured professor, to share in humanistic learning," he stresses.

Duffey would like to emphasize two new directions for the endowment. First, he hopes to strengthen existing cultural institutions outside the academic community which are struggling for funds and public attention to survive. He has in mind libraries, museums and historic societies. "They need to change their style of operating and become more consumer-oriented," he says.

He would also like to encourage studies and programs that seek to improve the quality of life, through a heightened consciousness of environment and individual heritage and even through basic educational programs. "One of the things that bothers me about today's society," he says, "is our loss of contact with the written word. Humanities does involve books, and reading and writing."

The endowment has already been moving gradually away from narrow academic projects toward more use of television and other modern means of communication to reach greater numbers of people.

Subsidized Apartments Planned For Oldsters In Benton Twp.

A Chicago housing development company is planning to build a 190-unit subsidized apartment complex for senior citizens on 15 acres of land on the south side of Napier Avenue in Benton Township.

And the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has set aside $630,768 for Crossroads Development Co. of Chicago to subsidize rents of senior citizens who would live in the proposed apartments.

However, the project still requires approval of a zoning change by Benton Township and a review of the application for the federal funds by the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning Commission.

The regional planning commission meeting at Cassopolis yesterday tabled action on the application for the $630,768 federal grant pending more information about the project, according to William Gebhard acting SWMRPC director.

Crossroads Development Co. is proposing to build the apartments on 15 acres of vacant land on the south side of Napier Avenue, between Ogden Avenue and Union Street.

Ralph Brown, president of Crossroads Development, said his company has an option to buy the land. The land is owned by Ella Rieck and the estate of the late Werner E. Rieck, according to township records.

The land currently is zoned for single- and two-family dwellings, according to Benton Township Supervisor Cathryn Sirk, and requires a zoning change for construction of the apartments. The developers have not yet come before the planning commission to request a zoning change, she said.

Announcement of the "reservation" of the $630,768 grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) was made yesterday by U.S. Sen. Donald Riegle's office in Washington.

John Kirkwood, director of the HUD office in Grand Rapids, said the announcement that the funds have been reserved means that the grant may be awarded after the application is reviewed by the regional planning commission and several federal agencies.

Brown said the apartment complex will contain 135 one-bedroom units which will rent for approximately $280 a month and 15 two-bedroom apartments which will rent for about $330 a month.

Kirkwood said the federal subsidies for rent be based on income with the tenant paying 25 per cent of his income for rent. He said, as an example, a senior citizen with $400 a month would pay $100 for rent. The federal government would subsidize $180 to pay the $280 a month rent.

The $630,768 federal grant will come up for renewal each year and will be based on a review of the management of the apartments, Kirkwood said.

In other action yesterday, the regional planning commission accepted the resignation of John Kowalski, transportation planner, effective Oct. 3. Kowalski, who joined the regional planning commission staff in October, 1974, is accepting a position as director of physical planning for a regional planning commission in Des Moines, Iowa, Gebhard said.

The regional planning commission also reviewed and recommended approval of applications by local communities and agencies for federal funds totaling $6,886,878.

Among the grants recommended for approval were two, totaling $6,421,932, for continuation of existing programs by the Berrien County CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) office.

A $5,517,371 federal grant will be used to continue a program to employ approximately 500 low income county residents in Title II positions.

A $904,561 grant will be used by the county CETA office to continue a program to provide public service employment for unemployed county residents.

The regional planning commission also recommended approval of a $181,000 grant sought by Hartford Township from the U.S. Economic Development Administration. The application for public works funds will be used to build a new township hall.

A $263,946 grant application by the City of South Haven was also recommended for approval. The grant, sought from the U.S. Economic Development Administration, is a resubmittal of an earlier application for public works funds to make repairs and install water and sewer mains along Kentucky Avenue.

Berrien Hearings Sought

The Berrien County Board of Commissioners will meet in special session Thursday to consider requests from the county's Economic Development Corp. relating to two projects in Benton Township.

Charles Schrenk, director of the economic development department, said the board will be asked to set dates for public hearings on requests for tax exempt revenue bonds from a Chicago developer and Sandvik Steel, Inc.

Schrenk said Jack Jacobs, the developer, seeks $4.3 million in bonds to construct a K-mart shopping complex at a site near the proposed Pipestone Mall off Pipestone Road, Sandvik, he said, seeks $1.8 million bonds to install additional equipment in its plant in the Pipestone Industrial Park in Benton Township. The Economic Development Corp., which oversees the bond program in Berrien County, will ask the county board to set dates for public hearings on the designation of project areas for the two projects, Schrenk said. The public hearings are the first step in a lengthy process before the bonds are issued.

Last week, the Benton Township Board of Trustees set public hearings for both projects Oct. 4. The requests for the bonds follow the same procedures at both the township and county levels.

Schrenk said the K-mart project would create about 200 new jobs, while the Sandvik project would add some 35 jobs to the area's economy.

BH Teacher-Board Talks Stalled; Mediator Called

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

Negotiators for Benton Harbor Area Schools teachers early this morning asked for a state mediator as contract talks with school board representatives broke off with several issues remaining at an impasse, according to Michael Schroeder, chief negotiator for the Benton Harbor Education Association.

Schroeder said a faculty meeting was scheduled for 4 o'clock this afternoon at senior high to bring teachers up to date on negotiations. Teachers remained on the job today, Schroeder said.

Schroeder said insurance coverage is a major unresolved issue. He said teachers are happy with the present policy that would be changed under a school board proposal. Schroeder listed other unresolved issues to include retroactive pay to Aug. 28, when the old contract expired; teaching hours, and working conditions, mainly related to lunch hours and the length of the work days.

As to base salary scales,

Schroeder said negotiations haven't gotten into this too much, because of the other unresolved issues.

Schroeder said negotiations have been over a five-month period. He said the last session ran nearly four hours until 1:15 a.m. today. No further negotiations were scheduled, Schroeder said. He said either party can call in a state mediator, and teacher representatives did this last night.

Schroeder said teachers this afternoon could take any action they wanted, as far as a strike is concerned, but he expects the session will be only an update on negotiations, Schroeder said.

Although out contract expired Aug. 26, teachers have worked diligently for the benefit of students. We have bargained in good faith and it is hard to believe that the provisions which are not settled have been in our contract for years."

Broker Clients Due $351,600

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Nearly 80 customers of a defunct Grand Rapids stock brokerage firm are due $351,600 from the firm's president to settle their $10 million suit for damages.

The broker was found guilty in Van Buren Circuit Court in June on three counts of violating the state securities law in connection with transactions involving Mrs. Winnifred LaFever, South Haven. He was cleared on five counts in the same proceedings and has since appealed the verdict on the three.

Mrs. LaFever was not among the people named as plaintiffs in the $10 million suit, but a court spokesman told this newspaper she could be involved in the settlement anyway. One part of the suit made it a class action covering anyone with dealings with the firm.

Attorneys said the settlement from C.E. Cook, now a resident of Scottsdale, Ariz., was approved Monday by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Wendell Miles.

Last year, Miles entered a default judgment against Cook. The judge accused Cook of deception and flagrant disregard of court orders.

Customers claimed Cook sold high risk stocks for more than they were worth and without disclosing their speculative nature.

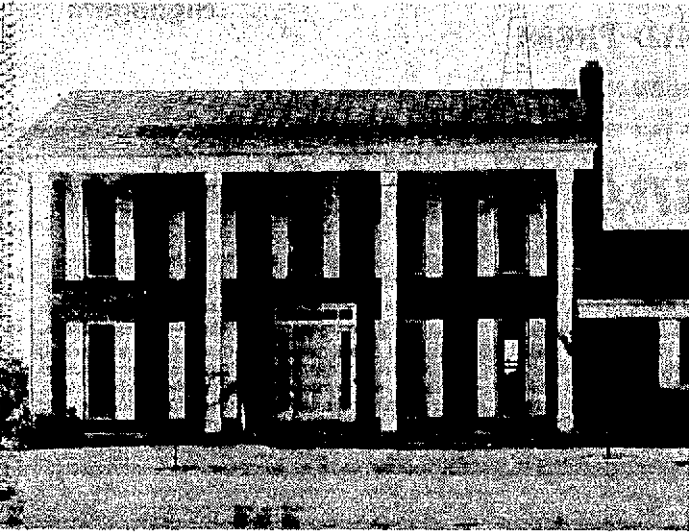

Expensive Trout

A Cincinnati, Ohio, man snagged a four-pound brown trout at the Berrien Springs dam Monday that wound up costing him $71. William H. Behne, 52, pleaded guilty in Berrien Fifth District Court yesterday to a charge of snagging a trout (hooking it other than in the mouth) after receiving a citation from Bill Edwards of the Department of Natural Resources.

Judge Hugh Black sentenced Behne to the customary $34 in fines, court and conservation costs. Judge Black then added an additional fine of $10 per pound for the fish, the maximum weight charge for the violation.

Edwards said that he recommended the weight charge because he considers snagging a serious problem in the area. Salmon snagging is permitted below the Berrien Springs dam downstream to the US-31 bridge, but snagging is not allowed for trout in the same area.

Announce Favorite Bulbs

The People's Choice

The people's choice in bulb flowers have been selected for 1977 and there are twelve.

The twelve vibrant spring flowers, perfect for any garden, and chosen by you the flower-lovers and gardeners of the world. They cover the gamut of bulb flowers, tulips, hyacinths, narcissus, crocuses, muscari and allium. They will bloom in a rainbow of colors, reds, white, purple, yellows and some even bloom in multi-colors.

How were they chosen? Hundreds of thousands of flower lovers from all over the world visited the famed Keukenhof Gardens in Lisse, Holland, at the peak of the spring blooming season. They toured acres of spring flowers and voted for their favorites. Then a panel of bulb experts studied the ballots and announced the final selections.

This year the twelve which made the final list represented the A to Z in bulbs. They included two aromatic hyacinths; five exotic tulips; two narcissus, the harbinger of spring; a tiny herald of spring, the crocus; a deep purple muscari and a giant allium. It's the first time so many different bulb flowers made the coveted list.

Planted now, in the fall, these international beauties will make any garden a showcase of spring color and they are all in good supply in retail outlets across the United States.

They include:

Hyacinth-AMSTERDAM: A large scented blossom composed of rosy-pink florets.

Hyacinth-CARNegie: A pure white hyacinth on a dense spike with a sweet scent to permeate the spring garden.

Darwin Tulip-SWEET HARMONY: A lemon yellow flower edged in ivory-white on a strong, tall stem blooming during the late spring.

Darwin Hybrid Tulip-ON-FORD: A scarlet bloom with a sulphur yellow base on a tall stem blooming in mid-spring.

Lily-Flowered Tulip-WHITE TRIUMPHATOR: The pure white tulip on a long stem blooms in late spring with a bloom that resembles a lily.

Parrot Tulip-FANTASY: A salmon-pink flower with green stripes on the outer petals which blooms in late spring.

Greigt Tulip-CAPE COD: An exotic tulip with an apricot exterior edged in yellow and a bronze interior atop purple mottled foliage. Blooms in late spring.

Narcissus-FLOWER RECORD: A large cupped narcissus with large petals and a deep yellow cup edged in orange. Blooms in early spring.

Narcissus-DUTCH MASTER: A large, bright yellow trumpet narcissus which blooms early in the spring.

Muscari-ARMENIACUM: A deep blue flower, this muscari blooms in mid-spring.

To prepare the bed, the tulip bed should be dug so that the bulbs will be planted at least eight inches from ground surface. This will protect them from winter frost.

The soil at the bottom of the bed should be loosened and a fertilizer such as bone meal or one high in phosphorus, calcium and magnesium should be mixed with the loosened soil. This will place essential growth elements into the root zone where it will be readily available to the bulbs and the loosened soil will permit easier and better root growth.

The bulbs should be planted firmly with pointed ends up and the bed should be filled with soil halfway and watered thoroughly. The remaining soil should be added, covered with a mulch and watered thoroughly again.

In the spring, as soon as shoots begin to emerge, the bulbs should be fertilized with a high nitrogen and potassium fertilizer. Spring rains will leach these elements down to the bulb roots. When the spring blooming period is over, the foliage should be permitted to die naturally because it is during this period that the main portion of the food reserves are transported from the leaves to the developing roots.

Look Beyond Horizons To Brave New Breakfasts

Use Basic Four Food Groups

You wake up each day into a motor-driven, electronically-calculated, computer-programmed world, one wholly different from that which your grandparents, parents or even your older brothers or sisters knew.

You are more daring, venturesome, aware of life. Via television, your neighborhood is the world.

Yes, you move in the fast and furious heat of the future, but you often brave your way alone. Because of such societal facts of life as working mothers and flexible school scheduling, many more decisions are being left to you. Like whether to eat breakfast, for instance.

Being entrusted with the preparation of your own (or perhaps the whole family's) meals can either be a bold adventure of a big burden. You can choose to treat your body with respect or to ignore its needs. Time spent in eating right is well rewarded with extra energy and a sense of rightness with the universe. But it takes a lot of planning ahead and more than a little daring to step out into the land of independent living — caring for yourself when no one is watching.

As you travel into this new territory, bring along a family guide — The Basic Four Food Groups. Each day your body needs four servings from the bread and cereals group, four servings from the fruits and vegetables group, four servings from the milk group (for a teenager) and two servings from the meat group.

Look beyond your old breakfast horizons to these brave new breakfasts, complete with mini-meal menus based on The Basic Four Food Groups.

Venture into new taste territory at home, on the way to school or between classes with Safari Snack Crunch. Share it with friends. It tames appetites when eaten out of hand or as a cereal with milk.

WAFFLE-WICHES

One package of eight frozen round waffles

Four eggs beaten

One tablespoon milk

One-fourth teaspoon salt

Dash pepper

One and one-half tablespoons butter

Four slices Canadian or domestic bacon, cooked

Toast waffles according to package directions. Meanwhile, scramble eggs by adding milk, salt, pepper to the beaten eggs; melting butter in skillet over low heat; adding eggs, lifting from sides as mixture thickens and cook until thickened throughout, but still moist, about five minutes.

Butter one side of each waffle. Top four waffles with scrambled eggs and bacon, divided equally. Place second waffle over each. Top with Apple-Red Grape Sauce.

APPLE-RED GRAPE SAUCE

Two tablespoons cornstarch

One-half cup sugar

Two and one-half cups red grape juice

One-fourth cup seedless raisins

One-half cup peeled, finely chopped apples

Grated rind and juice of one lemon

Two tablespoons butter or margarine

In a saucepan, combine cornstarch and sugar. Stir in red grape juice. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until sauce bubbles and thickens. Remove from heat, stir in rind, juice and butter. Serve warm. Spoon over Waffle-Wiches. Yields approximately three cups.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Oops! -- Artificial ARE Okay

Dear Readers: I am writing from the doghouse. And all I said was, "Artificial flowers at a wedding are the pits!"

I was promptly hit with approximately 2,000 letters from women who are allergic to flowers. An irate reader in Denver wrote, "There would have been no wedding if I had had to carry the 'traditional' bridal bouquet. I am allergic to virtually every flower that grows — especially roses, lilies of the valley and daisies. So I carried a white satin Bible with ribbon streamers instead."

That was only the beginning! The heaviest mail came from the "in" crowd who told me I was plenty "out." They informed me that handmade silk flowers are a lot classier than fresh flowers and where in the heck have I been for the last three years anyway?

Many mothers of brides decked me with statements such as this one from Short Hills, N.J.: "Mrs. G" cried, "The silk flowers we used at our daughter's wedding cost a small fortune but they were well worth it. We even used them on the altar. The guests are still raving." Then she added a charming P.S.: "Hang up your typewriter ribbon, Granny. You are definitely getting senile."

Have you ever heard of flowers made of wood fiber, folks? Well, neither had I — until I came up with what appears to be a landmark gaffe. Now I know wood-fiber flowers are not only terribly chic, but almost indistinguishable from the real thing — especially when they are scented. I was also clobbered by the dried flower enthusiasts. At least a thousand wrote to say dried flowers are breathtakingly beautiful, especially when arranged by a florist. The best part is that they can be a lifelong keepsake.

So — forgive me, one and all. When I put the kibosh on artificial flowers at weddings, I had in mind those wax jobs and plastic atrocities. Thanks for setting me straight. This afternoon I'm going out and buying some silk flowers for my desk.

sex since high school. They used to make so much fun of me that in self-defense I invented stories about my "escapades."

Ann, I just can't give myself to a man I don't love, but I guess no one my age feels that way any more. I'm beginning to think I'm a freak. For example, last week my girlfriend had a barbecue and set me up with this new guy. He got insulted and wouldn't drive me home because I refused to agree to sleep with him that same night.

Am I a fool to think there are any decent guys left in this world? Please give this 22-year-old maid some advice. — Miss P.H.

Dear Miss: You sound like a first-class lady. You WILL meet Mr. Right one of these days — and when you do, you'll be awfully glad you waited. He's out there someplace — I promise. Let me know when he shows up.

CONFIDENTIAL. To What Should I Say? A good response is this: "I'll excuse you for asking. If you'll excuse me for not answering."

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents in coin to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Open Letter to Dan Rather (author of "The Camera Never Blinks")

Dear Dan: I am addressing you rather informally as you nearly missed being named in a suit to end a 28-year marriage.

Last Sunday I was reading your book when my husband said, "How do you like the book?"

I told him I thought it was fascinating and he asked if you broached the subject of that infamous press conference when you arose to scattered applause and Mr. Nixon asked, "Are you running for something?" and you replied, "No, Mr. President, are you?"

"I always felt that was an out-of-line retort," said my husband.

"You had to have been there," I said. "It wasn't the way it seemed at all."

"Knowing you, you probably got it screwed up anyway."

"What do you mean by a crack like that?"

"Exactly what you think I mean. You are always quoting statistics that when tallied up exceed 100 per cent."

"At least I know how I feel before a bumper sticker comes out on it."

"Unlike some people, I do not have time to read for pleasure. I am too busy cutting the lawn, mowing the hose and cleaning the garage. If I had wanted to work Sundays, I'd have been a priest."

"And I suppose I do not work Sundays? This morning, I did a load of towels, got breakfast, went to church..."

"That's another thing. Why is it when we are supposed to give one another the kiss of peace, you kiss me on the lips, then turn to the people behind you and whisper, 'Who IS this weirdo?'"

"Just a little humor. Can't you take a joke anymore?"

"Speaking of your mother, she wants you to call her."

"You know what I can't stand about you? It's the way you smile when you argue. Why can't you snarl like everyone else? I read the other day where 69 per cent of the American people hate it when you smile, 35 per cent like it, and 13 per cent had no opinion."

"There you go again. That adds up to 117 per cent." He picked up the book. "Why does Dan Rather want to break up our marriage?"

"I don't know. I never figured him for a homewrecker."

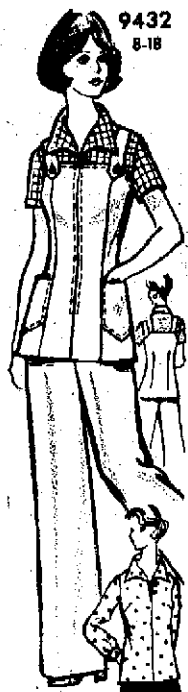

I don't know your reason for doing this, Dan, but I know that Walter Cronkite would never make trouble!

him for a homewrecker."

Dear Ann Landers: I seem to be the only girl in the world with this problem and I have no one to talk to. I'm 22 and, embarrassed to say, still a virgin. These days if you haven't had sex by the time you're 18, you might as well join a convent. All my girlfriends have been having

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like your advice on how to lose fat in specific areas. I'm 15 years old, 5 feet 2, and weigh 114. The fat accumulates on the inside of my knees, thighs and hips. I exercise, but I'm losing everywhere but there.

When I lose weight I lose it in my waist. When I gain, it's noticeable in my knees. Please send me a diet or some exercises that will help, especially my knees.

DEAR READER — There is a persistent but completely wrong idea that exercises will reduce a specific area — "spot reducing." It just isn't so.

When you lose fat you lose it all over and when you gain you gain all over. Why then do you have fat knees? Because some people have more fat cells to begin with in certain body locations. It is often a familial characteristic. We see the same thing in different breeds of animals.

So you grew up with a different body plan than some others. The only way you can eliminate excess fat from your knees, thighs, and hips is to have a general weight loss and these may be the last areas to lose fat stores in your case. Exercising your legs will not help other than increasing the use of calories. You can increase or decrease the size of an arm or leg by changes in muscle size but the loss of fat is in response to the total body metabolism.

I am sending you the Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Lossing Diet, that you can use for a plan and you should accompany it with regular exercise, walking, swimming, dancing, whatever you enjoy. Others who want this plan can send 50 cents in response to the total body metabolism.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had a chest X ray recently which showed calcium in my aorta. What causes it and what can I do about it to keep it from getting worse? Could this cause a heart attack?

DEAR READER — The aorta is that large artery that carries oxygenated blood away from your left heart to most of your body. Branches off the aorta go to the brain, abdominal organs, arms and legs and wherever oxygenated blood is needed.

It is a very large artery and in young people is very elastic. It expands each time the left heart pumps blood into it with each heartbeat. The elasticity enables it to literally beat with each pulsation.

As you get older the wall of the aorta tends to calcify and loses its elasticity.

Often a person lives out his or her life span without this being a significant problem. Sometimes, if it becomes extensive it may cause the top blood pressure reading (systolic) to be higher than in young people. The higher levels will increase the chances of having a stroke or a heart attack.

I wouldn't be unduly alarmed about the finding but I do think you would be wise to keep your weight down, eat a diet low in fat, particularly saturated fat and cholesterol. Don't smoke cigarettes if you happen to do so. Unless your doctor finds something on your examination that would justify doing more, such as very high cholesterol levels that cannot be controlled by diet alone, these measures should be about as much as is practical to do.

Dr. Lamb answers representative letters of general interest in his column. Write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in 10 days before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

Engagement and wedding pictures are usually available at this newspaper office after publication for a short time.

U.S. Senate Deadlocked

By JOHN LENIGER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate struggled today to break a deadlock on natural gas pricing after holding its first all-night session since the epic battle over the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Cots, blankets and pillows were brought in after Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd decided Tuesday night to try to force a decision on the natural gas bill by keeping the Senate in session around the clock.

Byrd said if the Senate fails to act, President Carter's "entire energy package will be imperiled." Carter, he added, would call Congress back into session if it adjourns later this year without reaching a decision.

"The only way to get action is to stay with it," Byrd said. "I feel it is my duty to do whatever I can do to secure final action on the bill."

It was the first all-night session since a 1964 civil rights bill filibuster. Byrd put Senate police, pages and clerks on staggered shifts so that they could rest and still keep pace with developments.

Senators tried to sleep, but had to keep plodding back to the chamber to vote on a stack of nearly 500 amendments pushed by Sens. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, and James Abourezk,

The aim of the two senators is to stall for time while pushing their proposal to continue federal control of natural gas prices with as low a price as possible.

Oil and gas industry lobbyists and sympathetic senators want an end to controls. They think they will prevail if they can sweep away the parliamentary tangle and put their proposal to a vote.

In a preliminary test shortly after midnight, the Senate refused by a vote of 47 to 40 to table the latest deregulation proposal managed by Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and James Pearson, R-Kan.

It was the third such test vote that went against the administration position since the Senate began debating the bill nine days ago.

While the full Senate wrestled with the natural gas bill, the finance committee chairman, Sen. Russell Long, sought to find a compromise on the President's oil-tax plan. The panel rejected the President's approach Monday.

HANCHO C. KIM

Korean Native Indicted In Influence-Buying Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury is accusing a Washington businessman of conspiring with the Korean Central Intelligence Agency to buy influence from congressmen and government officials.

The grand jury issued an indictment Tuesday of Korean-born cosmetics manufacturer Hancho C. Kim, charging that he conspired to defraud the United States and that he made a false declaration to the grand jury.

Later, a second grand jury in Baltimore indicted Kim on a charge of income tax evasion. Each of the three charges carries a maximum penalty of five years in jail and a maximum $10,000 fine.

The conspiracy indictment was the second in the grand jury's investigation of alleged South Korean efforts to buy influence in Congress and for the first time accused the KCIA of direct involvement in the effort.

Earlier, the grand jury indicted Korean rice dealer Tong-sun Park on 36 charges. Park, indicted in absentia, was accused of bribery and with acting as a foreign agent to buy influence in Congress with cash, gifts and parties.

Park is in South Korea and is fighting Justice Department efforts to return him to the United States.

Meanwhile, Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., confirmed reports Tuesday night that a KCIA agent named Sohn Young Ho has defected and is in the custody of U.S. marshals. Fraser said Sohn is cooperating with the House subcommittee on international organizations in its investigation of alleged Korean efforts to influence U.S. foreign policy.

The New York Times identified Sohn as the KCIA agent in charge of New York area operations and said he was accredited as a Korean consular official in New York.

In its indictment Tuesday, the grand jury said the KCIA delivered $800,000 to Kim's home to finance the influence-buying scheme from Aug. 15, 1974, until April of 1976.

It said Kim and a KCIA agent with the Korean embassy, Kim Sang Keun, sent more than 141 Telex messages from Kim's suburban Washington home to KCIA headquarters in Seoul to report progress.

The grand jury said Hancho Kim also got instructions from an assistant to the director of the KCIA in Seoul, Gen. Yang Doo Wan, who is also known as Lee Sang Ho.

The grand jury named Kim Sang Keun and Yang Doo Wan as unindicted co-conspirators. Kim Sang Keun, at one time the No. 2 KCIA agent attached to the South Korean Embassy in Washington, defected and cooperated with investigators. He previously was reported to have told the grand jury that he personally delivered the $800,000 to Hancho Kim.

A former KCIA director, Kim Hyung Wook, testified at a congressional hearing that he understood Hancho Kim was assigned to take over the influence efforts because Tong-sun Park was getting too much publicity.

The new indictment charges that the KCIA money Hancho Kim got was "for the purpose of distributing the money to members of the Congress." However, no congressmen are named in the indictment.

The indictment does say he entertained two unnamed congressmen at a dinner at an expensive restaurant in Washington and at his home.

And it says he had two congressmen put articles favorable to South Korea into the Congressional Record.

AAA Asks Probe Of Tank Trailers

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Calling the top-heavy design of some double-trailer tankers "a major contribution" to accidents, the Automobile Club of Michigan has asked for a federal safety study of the vehicles.

Jet Hits House; Two Boys Die

TOKYO (AP) — Two little Japanese boys died today of burns received when a U.S. Marine Phantom jet crashed into their home in a residential area outside Yokohama Tuesday.

The boys' mother and an aunt were among seven other Japanese injured in the crash, which destroyed two houses.

The plane's two crewmen, Capt. J.E. Miller of Mendota, Ill., and Lt. D. L. Durbin of Natchitoches, La., parachuted before the crash and were not hurt, a military spokesman reported.

The spokesman said the plane crashed shortly after taking off from Mitsui Air Station west of Tokyo. It was going to the carrier Midway, which was outside Tokyo bay.

In a letter sent Tuesday to Federal Highway Administrator William Cox, the club asked that such a study include design, accident rates, operation, inspection and regulation of the trucks in Michigan as compared with other states.

The club's general manager, James Moffat, said his request was prompted by a recent rash of accidents involving double-trailer fuel tank trucks. Seven accidents involving those trucks have killed three persons and injured nine.

"While our safety engineers' analysis of those accidents showed that drivers were the main cause, we feel that the unforgiving top-heavy design of double-bottom trucks on Michigan roads makes a major contribution to the accident potential," Moffat said.

The club said its own study of 30 double-trailer accidents on Detroit-area freeways in the six months ending in February showed drivers were responsible for 19.

Of those 19 drivers, 13 had accumulated eight penalty points against their operator's licenses in five years, four times the average for all motorists. Records were not available for the other six.

The club did not say to what extent such records might be expected to stem from the vastly greater number of miles professional drivers cover compared to the average motorist.

Oakland 'Child-Killer' Tip Runs Into Dead End

DETROIT (AP) — A letter from a man claiming to be the roommate of the Oakland County child killer has kept police busy for five months, but investigators say they have been unable to track down either the writer or the slayer.

The long, pleading letter was mailed April 4 to Dr. Bruce Danto, a Detroit psychiatrist, by a man who identified himself only as "Allen."

Danto turned the letter over to the county's Homicide Task Force, set up 20 months ago with the sole task of finding the person responsible for the kidnap-murders of four youngsters in the county, north of Detroit.

The murders took place between February, 1976 and last March.

"I am dperite (desperate) and nearly gone crazy..." Allen wrote in his poorly spelled letter. "This is for real I know who the killer is. I live with him. I am his slave."

Allen said he had accompanied the killer, whom he calls Frank, when he looks for boys. But Allen said he was not with Frank when he kidnaped his four victims.

Allen said he stayed with the children in an apartment in Detroit while Frank goes to work. He said no one can hear them, because they are gagged all the time.

The letter-writer asked Danto to contact him through the newspapers, using the code words "trees to bloom in three weeks."

Following instructions, Danto did so on April 10 and received a phone call from Allen, who promised to meet him the next night.

Allen set up a rendezvous with Danto at a homosexual bar. He said he would bring Polaroid pictures with him proving Frank killed the four children if in turn the psychiatrist brought a letter of immunity from Gov. William Milliken, Allen, however, never showed up.

Danto has made more appeals this fall in Sunday editions of the Detroit News, but without success.

"The man sounded very frightened, not cool and composed," Danto said. "I don't think it was a hoax call."

In his letter to Danto, Allen said he met Frank in Vietnam. The war had twisted his friend's mind, he said.

"He killed a lot of little kids then with medals for it. Burned them to death, bombed them with napalm. . . He wants the rich people like people in Birmingham to suffer like all of us suffered to get nothing back for what we did for our country," the letter said.

"He's not a monster like you think — He really loves children especially that little girl for three weeks not doing it because (he) hates children but doing it because (he) hates everybody else out there..."

Danto said if Allen is alive, "he may be too frightened to contact me or he needs some pressure to re-establish contact. I do have information which I have not shared with anyone, including the police."

"I'm in a position to help him a great deal, and I will. I think he has a chance to come out a hero."

Investigators said the letter from Allen is one of 12,544 tips they have received since the slayings, and they have put in more time and effort trying to find the letter-writer than on any other angle.

"We've done a real, in-depth investigation," said State Police Sgt. Joseph Krense, second in command of the task force. "But eventually we're going to have to drop it and go on."

Accused Bomber To Deny Charges

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A man charged with the 1983 church bombing that killed four black girls will plead innocent, his lawyer says.

Robert Edward Chambliss, 73, will enter the plea at his arraignment on four counts of first-degree murder, his attorney, Art Hanes Jr., said Tuesday. No date has been set for the arraignment.

Now Biztax Battle Can Begin

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state House and Senate have exchanged ideas on how best to patch up the state's business tax. Now the real fight can begin.

Only a day after the Senate passed its revision of the tax, the House on Tuesday approved its own measure, intended to ease the tax load on small and unprofitable businesses.

The bill, passed 91-10 and sent to the Senate, would provide a tax break of about $64 million for small and unprofitable companies. It would increase taxes by about $57 million on larger, money-making corporations, resulting in a net loss of about $7 million to the state, according to budget officials.

The Senate bill, now in the House, is also designed to ease the tax burden on small businesses. But it would do so in a different way.

Authors of the Senate bill estimated it would shift more than $100 million in taxes from small to big businesses.

The future of both bills is cloudy, with many lawmakers expecting a final version to be hammered out only in a conference committee.

The controversial single business tax, which took effect last year, was designed to simplify the tax system, stabilize revenues and promote jobs and economic growth by giving tax breaks to large manufacturers.

But small businesses, farmers and professionals protested that their taxes skyrocketed. Their intense pressure on state officials and lawmakers produced a special commission, months of hearings, stacks of testimony and data and various proposals to ease the inequities.

The bill passed Tuesday makes the following changes in the tax, which is based on profits, payrolls, interest and depreciation:

—The deduction for small and low-profit businesses would be increased from $36,000 to $40,000.

—The bill would permit a larger number of businesses to qualify for a tax break if they employ many workers.

Currently, a company whose labor force makes up more than 15 per cent of its tax base gets a tax break. If, for example, a company's labor force constitutes 88 per cent of the tax base, the firm gets to subtract 3 per cent from its tax base.

The bill would lower the labor force limit to 63 per cent, and for small firms it would drop to 35 per cent. So a small company with a large payroll could eliminate a large portion of its tax base.

—A total exemption for agriculture, and a simpler method of filing estimated tax payments.

—To qualify for the small business tax break, a firm could make no more than $2 million a year in gross profits. No owner or partner could earn more than $40,000.

To make up the lost revenue, the state would tax depreciation more heavily. Instead of taxing only half the depreciation on items owned before the tax took effect, the state would tax 100 per cent of it.

The Senate bill, by comparison, slices the single business tax from 3.5 per cent to 1.2 per cent; offers small firms a new tax based on gross profits, with a $25,000 exemption; and imposes a 7.8 per cent tax on corporate profits to regain the lost revenue.

SHLOMO TAL
Material Witness

Diamond Mystery Takes Bizarre Turn

By WILLIAM MURPHY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The body of a diamond broker missing with a fortune in jewels was found today wrapped in cellophane in the office of a second diamond merchant, who had also been missing until he was found earlier today asleep in a parked car, police said.

The body of Pinchos Jaroslawicz was found in the midtown Manhattan office of diamond cutter Shlomo Tal, who was found sleeping in his wife's car, with $30,000 in diamonds under the seat, in the New York City Borough of Queens.

Police said Tal told them he witnessed a robbery in which two men killed Jaroslawicz on Sept. 29.

Tal conducted business the rest of the week while Jaroslawicz's body lay bound in heavy cellophane wrappers, according to Lt. Earl Campazzi of the missing persons Squad.

Campazzi said Tal did not inform police immediately about Jaroslawicz' death because "he was scared for his life and the safety of his wife and children."

He said the whereabouts of two packets of Jaroslawicz' jewelry estimated to be worth between $100,000 and $1 million was still unknown.

Tal is being held as a material witness, but is not being charged with Jaroslawicz' murder, police said.

Details of the murder came to light this morning after two police officers found Tal asleep in his wife's 1972 Buick in the Forest Hills section of Queens.

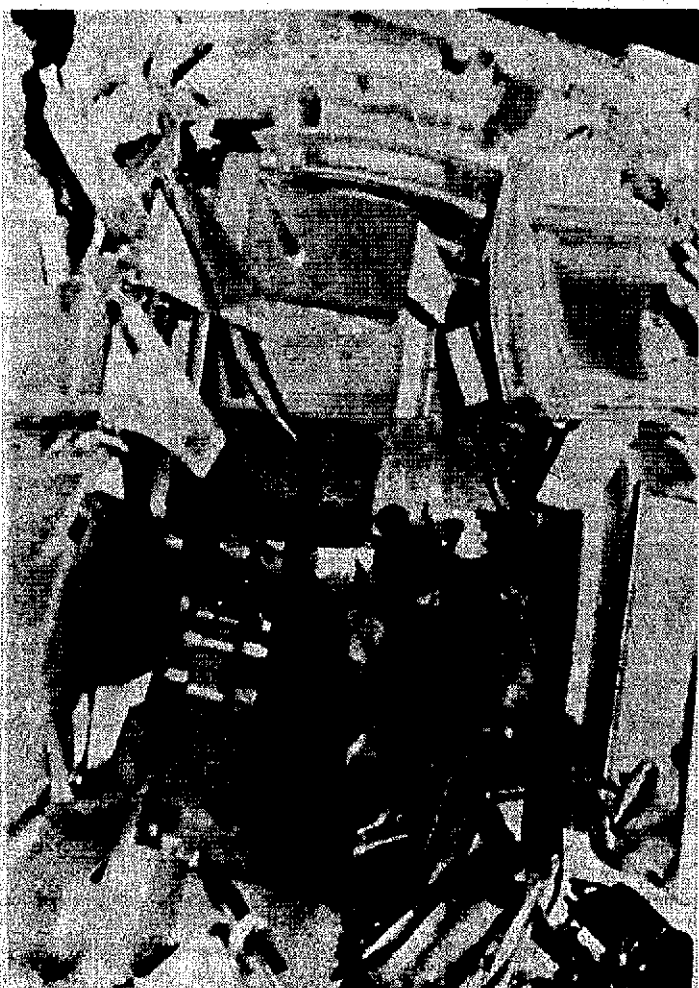

A major unanswered question is where Jaroslawicz' body was when police went through the office earlier in a search for the two men.

also been notified.

Police quoted Tal as saying he left his Plainview, Long Island, home Sunday morning to go to work and was stopped for a traffic light when two men jumped into his car and ordered him to drive away.

Jaroslawicz, an Orthodox Jew described by friends as deeply religious and a family man, has not been seen since he left the Diamond Club on West 47th Street on the day before Yom Kippur, the holiest of days on the Jewish calendar.

The missing diamond dealer was believed by police to have been en route to see Tal last Tuesday, although Tal told police today that he never saw Jaroslawicz that day.

Judge Orders New Grant Split

located in the City of Benton Harbor. The college is actually located in Benton Township. Fox said the $5 million was granted on the basis of unemployment figures for the city.

Fox said the EDA's own legal counsel had conceded it was an "unjust distribution of funds."

"Through this $5 million bungle, LMC is building an auditorium which is supposed to be used by LMC students," Fox wrote.

"At the same time, the elementary and secondary facilities in Benton Harbor are deplorable — contributing substantially to early dropouts and an inadequate teaching environment — which in turn results in inadequate schooling of disadvantaged children who will never be able to attend LMC or use its auditorium."

The judge said he enjoined the $2.77 million in Round 2 funds after determining that EDA regulations for distributing the money were "arbitrary and capricious."

Bob Bunda, a law clerk for the judge, said Fox was specifically referring to the regulation that reduced Benton Township's eligibility for Round 2 money because LMC, which is located within the township, received a Round 1 grant.

Benton Township's application for a $1.195 million Round 2 grant was rejected by the EDA after it learned LMC was located in the township. The money was redistributed to the City of Benton Harbor and that act resulted in Benton township filing suit in U.S. District Court.

Fox held in his opinion that the Round 1 grant of $3 million to LMC should have been credited against the entire county and not just Benton Township because the college serves the county.

Using that as a guideline, the EDA must come up with a new formula for distributing the $2.77 million, Fox held. That will leave Benton Township as well as Benton Harbor still eligible for a portion of the $2.77 million, according to Bunda. The county's eligibility will be reduced, however, Bunda added.

Fox noted that he retains jurisdiction in the case and the EDA must submit to him for approval whatever new formula it comes up with for distributing the money.

Crime In U.S. Up Very Little

WASHINGTON (AP) — Serious crime in the United States rose by less than 1 per cent last year, showing major improvement over the 10 per cent increase of 1975, federal crime statistics show.

The FBI said Tuesday there was an 8 per cent decrease in murders in 1976 and a 10 per cent drop in robberies, reducing the country's incidence of violent crime by 4 per cent.

It was when the FBI combined the violent crime figures with statistics for nonviolent crimes, such as auto theft, that the agency arrived at the overall 1976 crime increase of less than 1 per cent.

Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell said the statistics are "encouraging news, particularly when preliminary reports show a 9 per cent decline in reported serious crime for the first three months of 1977."

The FBI statistics, assembled from information supplied by some 130 law enforcement agencies, showed an average of one murder every 28 minutes last year, one rape every nine minutes and a robbery every 75 seconds. A car was stolen every 31 seconds.

But the 18,780 murders, two-thirds of them committed with firearms, represented an 8 per cent drop from 1975. And murder was down 1 per cent that year from 1974.

The FBI said the number of rapes increased 1 per cent in 1976 to a total of 56,730. Of those arrested, the agency said, 57 per cent were under 25 years old and 49 per cent were dismissed or acquitted of the charge in court.

Aggravated assault also increased by about 1 per cent, with 229 victims for every 100,000 persons. But the 420,120 robberies — about 186 offenses per 100,000 persons — was a decrease of 10 per cent. Nearly half the total was street robberies.

Teachers Told To End Strike

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Striking teachers in the Detroit suburb of Clawson have been ordered to return to their jobs or face possible dismissal. School officials issued that threat in letters mailed out Tuesday, the first day of a walkout by the 172 teachers. Classes have been canceled for 3,500 students because of the strike.

A spokesman for the teachers said the strikers had expected such a threat and planned to continue the walkout until bargainners reach agreement on a new contract.

Meanwhile, teachers in Flint returned to their jobs Tuesday for the first time this fall, allowing classes for 40,000 students to begin.

The teachers returned to work under a temporary order by Genesee County Circuit Judge Philip C. Elliott, who delayed until Oct. 12 a decision on whether to issue a permanent injunction against the three-week-old strike.

Two Break Out Of Arizona Jail

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Two men who escaped by tunneling through a wall in their cell at the Pima County Jail were sought today by sheriff's deputies.

Both men, one an escapee from the Michigan State Prison, were termed dangerous, although it was not known if they were armed.

The escapees were identified as James W. Jeffers, 31, and Robert B. Butcher, 35. Jeffers was being held on several charges and was awaiting trial for murder.

Butcher, an escapee from the Michigan prison, was being held for conspiracy to commit murder in an earlier plot to escape from the Tucson jail.

The breakout was discovered at about 9:20 p.m. Tuesday, just six minutes after the men had been seen in their cell, officials said. Corrections Director Paul Dunn said the men tunneled through the block wall using spoons, stepped into a corridor and got outside using a storage room door.

The men were housed in a remodeled portion of the jail that did not have reinforced walls because it had originally been used as an office.

Jeffers was accused in the death last October of Penelope Cheney, whose body was found in a shallow grave in February near Sedona.

Butcher was arrested in February on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and assault with a deadly weapon. When he was arrested, it was learned he had been sought since January, 1976 for escaping from the Michigan State Prison where he was serving a six-to-10-year sentence for breaking and entering.

The original charges were dismissed after Butcher and his wife were indicted for conspiring to kill the driver of a prison van in an escape plot.

BEFORE FEEDER BEACH: This aerial photo taken a year ago south of South Haven shows erosion eating away embankment and endangering house owned by James Hidenfelter of Coldwater. Army Corps of Engineers at that time began feeder beach project about a quarter mile north to try and stem erosion. Feeder beach project involved dumping tons of sand along beach to replenish shoreline beach. Project cost some $468,000. Corps began work after 1971 repairs to South Haven piers blocked natural wave action that replenished sand.

AFTER FEEDER BEACH COMPLETED: Combination of man and nature is working to stem erosion in this area south of South Haven. Man-made feeder beach completed earlier this year and lower Lake Michigan water levels combined to form this 3,000-foot-long beach some 200 feet wide. James Hidenfelter house (lower center of photo), thought to be in imminent danger of going over bluff last year, is still standing and immediate danger is past, Don Zordell, South Haven emergency preparedness officer, said. House is located on Evergreen Bluff, curving road behind house. Original estimates had concluded that feeder beach would not save house. Area is located about one-fourth mile south of city in South Haven Township. (Adolph Hann aerial photos)

Cassopolis Nixes Recall

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer

CASSOPOLIS — Cassopolis voters yesterday defeated an attempt to recall three village councilmen.

All three councilmen,

Republican George Maddox plus Democrats Joseph Broussard and Elbur Hawkins, elected in March, will now remain in office, according to Jack Snyder, village clerk.

Snyder reported a total of 454 of the village's 863 registered voters, or 46.8 percent, turned out for yesterday's recall election. A total of 31.7 percent turned out when the trio was elected in March, he said.

All three defeated the recall effort by the following margins, according to unofficial vote totals released by Snyder: Maddox, 347 to 87; Broussard, 278 to 170; and Hawkins, 246 to 197. The vote totals must be verified by the Cass County Board of Canvassers.

It was the first time the village has had a recall election, according to Snyder.

The recall effort came after Mrs. Stella Casey, an unsuccessful candidate for re-election in the March balloting, challenged use of absentee ballots in the election and forced the recall vote through a petition.

Maddox and Broussard carried both of the village's precincts. Hawkins lost in the first precinct by three votes (98 to 95), but carried the second precinct (126 to 101).

Watch The Exit Door

SEATTLE (AP) — Flying isn't what it used to be.

Thirty years ago, Air Canada says, these were the instructions to hostesses on flights from Vancouver, Canada, to Boeing Field here:

1. Warn passengers against throwing cigarettes and cigs out the window.
2. Keep the clock wound up in the passenger cabin.
3. Carry a railroad timetable in case the plane is grounded.
4. Keep an eye on passengers when they go to the toilet to be sure they don't mistakenly go out the emergency exit.

Cook Plant Loss Under $1 Million

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm & Features Editor

BRIDGMAN — Testing of non-nuclear components of the second generating unit of the Cook nuclear plant here has resumed following a freak accident that damaged four big coolant pumps on Sept. 1.

Del Shaller, plant manager, said the damage, now repaired, "approached" a million dollars, but did not reach that figure. Earlier estimates were that the repairs would cost in excess of $1 million, even perhaps up to $4 million.

A lightning strike on a transmission line during a storm on Sept. 1 caused an electrical surge that automatically shut off the power to both Unit 2, which is approaching completion, and to Unit 1 which is fully operational. The strike occurred somewhere between Bridgman and South Bend on a 345,000 kilovolt line, officials said.

Shaller explained that non-nuclear components of Unit 2 were undergoing a "hot functional" test at the time, but that backup emergency electrical generators were not hooked up. Cooling water supplied to the bearings and shafts of the four big coolant pumps stopped when the power went off.

Function of the big coolant pumps is to circulate water under pressure around the reactor core to control the intense heat. A separate system of cooler water and smaller pumps serve to keep the coolant pumps from overheating.

Shaller said when the flow of the cooling water stopped it allowed a backup of super-heated water that the big coolant pumps had been circulating. Although power was restored within four minutes, according to Shaller, the 540-degree water that backed into the coolant pumps caused the shafts of all four pumps to bow. It was necessary to completely disassemble the four pumps to replace the damaged shafts, Shaller said.

Unit 2 does not have nuclear fuel in it yet, but Shaller said the pump damage did not slow down the schedule that calls for it to be loaded with fuel beginning on Nov. 28.

Unit 1, which was generating electricity at the time of the incident, did a "textbook shutdown" when the power was interrupted, according to Candace Gifford, in charge of public relations at the Cook Nuclear Center. Emergency diesel generators switched on and Unit 1 resumed operation at once, she explained.

Shaller said if emergency generators had been connected up for the non-nuclear components test the damage would not have occurred.

According to the plant manager, tests of the various functioning components of Unit 2 have been in progress for some time now.

Following loading of Reactor 2 with fuel, the unit is scheduled to go "critical" (begin nuclear reaction) around Jan. 1 for the first time. All subject to approval by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, additional testing will continue for several months. If no delays are encountered, Unit 2 should begin to produce power on a commercial basis next April or May, he stated.

Carter Hits Treaty Foes

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration's military and diplomatic forces are mounting a united, point-by-point counterattack against a well-organized campaign to scuttle the Panama Canal treaty.

In two days of hard-sell testimony this week, senior administration officials sought to reply to the anti-treaty campaign and to specific conservative arguments against ratification.

Conservative opponents of the treaty have argued that the treaty does not guarantee the U.S. right to defend the canal after it is turned over to Panama in the year 2000.

But in Senate testimony Tuesday, Defense Secretary Harold Brown and Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the military Joint Chiefs of Staff, stressed that there will be a far more dangerous military threat to the security of the canal if the treaty is rejected than if it is ratified.

Meanwhile, retired Adm. Thomas Moorer, one of four former chiefs of naval operations on record as opposing ratification of the treaty, was called before the House International Relations Committee today.

In his testimony Tuesday before the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee, Defense Secretary Brown said: "The canal was built for shipping, not slogans. The treaties you are examining provide a real security, not paper claims. They offer the most practical guarantee obtainable that the canal will remain operational, secure and available to the United States."

And Gen. Brown indicated the nation would have to be prepared for a long period of military action in Latin America if the Senate refuses to ratify the treaty.

He said a guerrilla warfare campaign from inside Panama would require three divisions or about 100,000 men to assure an adequate force to protect the canal. He said even a U.S. military force of that size could not stop saboteurs or commandos from causing enough damage to force the canal to close down for short periods.

And Secretary Brown said efforts to operate in such a hostile environment would mean repeated shutdowns that would require the United States to respond with military force "over and over again."

Asked to respond to critics who say that making the canal a neutral zone would open it to enemy shipping in time of war, Secretary Brown said the treaty does give the ships of all nations access to the canal — but it does not guarantee their safe passage to reach it.

Adm. James L. Holloway III, chief of naval operations, told the Senate panel in a written statement that approving the treaty would contribute to "a friendly and cooperative attitude" toward the United States by Latin American countries.

Lt. Gen. D.P. McAuliffe, commander of the 9,300 troops assigned to protect the canal, said ratification of the treaty "goes to the heart of having a friendly environment around the canal in which to operate."

FDA Proposes Chemical Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is seeking to ensure that there will be no further use of a chemical found in some spices, food packages and cosmetics.

The FDA proposed Tuesday to ban the chemical trichloroethylene, which once was widely used to decaffeinate coffee, enhance the flavor of beer and kill pain. The agency said the substance currently is found in trace amounts in some foods and is used as a solvent in some cosmetics.

U.S. Hunts Cult Leader

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The leader of a polygamist sect, two of his sons, one of his wives and two other men were being sought for the killing of a rival polygamist patriarch.

Federal arrest warrants were issued Tuesday for Ervil LeBaron, 50, and five of his followers in the death of rival leader Rulon Alford, shot by two unidentified women last May.

Mexican authorities have been asked to cooperate in the search for LeBaron, who recently was seen in Mexico City, authorities said.

The warrants bring to 11 the number of persons charged with murder, conspiracy or both in the case.

Alford, a Salt Lake City naturopath, had at least six wives and 40 children, police said.

Others being sought are Arturo Morel LeBaron, 27, and Edward Marston, 22, both of them sons of the fugitive cult leader; Rena Lei Chynoweth, 19, one of his wives, and Donald Eugene Sullivan, 28, and John Sullivan, 22, police said.

Federal fugitive warrants also have been issued for the six persons, police said.

The 11 suspects have been identified as members of the Church of the Lamb of God, which police said has hundreds of members mostly in the Southwest and Mexico.

David E. Yocom, of the Salt Lake County attorney's office, said, "LeBaron and his followers usually are armed with handguns, rifles, shotguns and automatic rifles and should be considered armed and dangerous."

Four members of the sect arrested last week in Denver and Dallas remained in jail without bond on murder and conspiracy charges. Another woman, charged with conspiracy, has agreed to surrender

ERVIL LeBARON
And 5 Followers to authorities, according to her lawyer.

PBB Study Results 'Worrisome'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration conducted a study two years ago which produced evidence that dogs fed small quantities of PBB — suffered physical problems, including convulsion, blindness and death, according to a Detroit newspaper.

PBB, a fire retardant fed unintentionally to Michigan cattle in 1973 when it accidentally was mixed with livestock feed, has caused a massive contamination problem in Michigan — of humans as well as farm animals.

The Detroit Free Press, in its Wednesday edition, reported PBB researchers and state health officials believe the findings could be very significant and valuable to their research.

Dr. Irving Selkoff, a researcher at Mount Sinai Hospital in New York, was quoted as saying the report "speaks of things that are very worrisome, like the blindness of a dog, the convulsions of a dog."

Earlier, a Selkoff research team from New York discovered that Michigan farmers who ate PBB-tainted food suffered blood damage and lost much of their resistance to infection.

Selkoff said the FDA study shows PBB, or polybrominated biphenyl, has a very definite effect on blood cells.

Research for the FDA study was completed about two years ago, according to its author, Theodore Farber. He told the Free Press he still doesn't have the final pathology report on the study, which he said had not been completed because of lack of staff. Farber said he fed PBB to 30 male beagles in doses ranging from .0625 to 4.0 milligrams per kilogram of PBB for 61 days.

Within 30 days, the summary reported, there were significant decreases in body weight in the two groups fed the higher levels. Dogs in the group fed the highest level of PBB suffered convulsions and blindness, and one died.

Doses fed the dogs was reported far below the PBB level fed to the contaminated Michigan cattle.

Meanwhile, the state Health Department said Tuesday the first results from a planned statewide study of PBB's effect on human health should be due a year from now.

Separate parts of the study, which is slated to begin in January, will be conducted by the University of Michigan's School of Public Health and the Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York.

An aide to Gov. William Milliken said all but the final details are worked out for the participation of Dr. Selkoff, whose previous study into the health effects of PBB included over 1,000 farm family members.

That study indicated that PBB causes certain ailments, including a reduced immunity to disease. Now medical experts will try to determine if PBB has had any effect on the general public.

The Mount Sinai team will conduct clinical field tests at various sites, while the UM School of Public Health will administer enrollment of participants and preliminary interviews.

Gromyko Sees SALT Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Soviet Union are closer to a new strategic arms limitation agreement, a top Soviet official says after his second meeting in five days with President Carter.

Emerging from an unusual and hastily arranged nighttime negotiating session at the White House, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said Tuesday the two superpowers made "some further progress" in narrowing their remaining differences on a new pact.

With Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance nodding in agreement at his side, Gromyko said Washington and Moscow have "the firm intention to work toward" a second SALT agreement.

Coming after progress in marathon talks here last Thursday and Friday, Gromyko's remarks left the impression that the momentum is accelerating toward a new agreement.

But U.S. officials cautioned against speculation that a breakthrough is near.

A sense of urgency pervaded the atmosphere here as Gromyko flew from New York in the early evening for the meeting. Vance, who had also been in New York, arrived separately.

Gromyko, speaking through his interpreter, refused to say what brought the second session with such speed. He and White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said only that the meeting was agreed to Monday.

Powell said the "core issues" were discussed in the 90-minute meeting, which was attended by Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Defense Secretary Harold Brown, U.S. arms negotiator Paul Warnke and others.

The main issues include the Soviet stand that the U.S. cruise missiles should be tightly limited. The cruise missile is a low-flying, pilotless plane armed with a nuclear warhead.

The United States is insisting on restrictions on the SS18, a Soviet heavy missile, and on the Soviet bunker-buster.

Another major issue is how compliance with any new agreement will be verified.

The 1972 SALT pact expires Monday, but the Carter administration has insisted that Moscow and Washington are not negotiating against that deadline.

After Oct. 3, no agreement will be in effect, although both governments have said they will honor the terms of the expiring accord while the new one is being negotiated.

The old treaty imposes limits on land-based and submarine-launched intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Gromyko flew to Washington after addressing the United Nations General Assembly in a speech that mixed conciliation with toughness toward the United States.

In a surprise move, Gromyko offered in the New York speech to join the United States and Great Britain in suspending all underground nuclear weapons tests for an unspecified period.

Town May Get Gas Again

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex. (AP) — Natural gas may be flowing again for residents of Crystal City, the little Texas town that had gas shut off because it hasn't paid its bills for more than two years. The town of 8,000 is getting help through Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and not through its own representatives in Washington.

Kennedy's office said Tuesday the Community Services Administration has agreed to provide $160,000 to be applied toward the town's $750,000 debt to Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. The federal agency also is giving Crystal City $50,000 to $100,000 for electric hotplates, butane and other services until the gas is restored. It was not known if Lo-Vaca would resume its supply of natural gas that was shut off last Friday.

No-Peril Claim

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials say there is no reason for concern over increased radiation in air and milk following passage of an air mass contaminated with radioactive debris.

The Environmental Protection Agency stressed Tuesday that higher radiation levels resulting from a Chinese nuclear detonation are well below danger levels.

Zenith Giving Up; Cutting U.S. Jobs

CHICAGO (AP) — Zenith Radio Corp., which claims to rely on American parts and labor more than any other major television maker, is moving key operations to Mexico and Taiwan and eventually eliminating one-fourth of its U.S. workforce.

Chairman John Nevin said Tuesday the firm was forced to take the action because of foreign competition.

The announcement comes a week after Youngstown Steel Co. announced the layoff of 5,000 workers in Ohio, in part because of competition from overseas manufacturers.

Nevin said he believed Zenith

"has tried longer and has tried harder than others to protect the jobs of its U.S. employees."

"It is now clear, however, that competitive manufacturers are obtaining increasingly significant cost advantages from production activities in lower labor cost areas of the world."

Nevin said the firm would transfer much of its television module board and chassis assembly operations to plants in Mexico and Taiwan. The move is expected to cost 3,500 American jobs by next year. Another 1,500 would be eliminated through the purchase of imported stereo products.

The move will mean the almost immediate firing of 800 middle-management, research and engineering personnel, mainly in the Chicago area. It also will force the eventual layoff of some 5,000 hourly workers at plants in Chicago, Paris, Ill., Springfield, Mo., Sioux City, Iowa, and Watsonville, Pa.

Zenith currently employs about 21,000 hourly workers in the United States and 3,000 overseas.

Leaders of the Independent Radiology Workers of America, which represents Zenith's hourly employees, were unavailable for comment.

Zenith's stock on the New York Stock Exchange dropped 1/2 point to 14 1/2 Tuesday when news of the staff reduction was announced.

Zenith's profits fell 11 percent during the first six months of the year, and Nevin announced in August that the firm would give increased sales promotion allowances to its distributors. At the time, Nevin said the allowances would cut third-quarter profits, although he expected the company to show a profit for the year.

Wants Fishing Cut

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The Soviet Union has followed up its expulsion of British and French trawlers from the Barents Sea with a note to the European Common Market calling for a drastic cut in fishing in the area, a British market spokesman said here.

overall.

Nevin has been a leader in the struggle by American-based electronics firms to curtail imports from Japan since he moved to Zenith from the Ford Motor Co. in 1971.

He repeatedly has charged that the Japanese manufacturers were selling sets in the United States at lower prices than they sold for in Japan. His legal staff has taken the fight to the U.S. Customs Court, the U.S. District Court in Philadelphia and the International Trade Commission.

Earlier this year, Japan finally agreed to limit its annual color television exports to the United States to 1,750,000. Televisions comprise about 80 percent of Zenith's sales.

Lee Harvey Oswald 'Trial' Will Run 2 Nights On TV

LEE HARVEY OSWALD. How Would You Vote?

By JAY SHARBUTT
LOS ANGELES (AP) — What might have happened had Lee Harvey Oswald not been shot dead by night club owner Jack Ruby, if he'd actually gone on trial for the 1963 assassination of President John-F. Kennedy? ABC poses the question Friday and Sunday nights in a $2.5 million movie representing a new form of documentary drama, the "what if" docu-drama, it's "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald."

(In a macabre promotional paper, ABC says it's putting a questionnaire in the Oct. 1 "TV Guide" that asks viewers how they'd vote were they on the Oswald jury. Results of this thumbs-up, thumbs-down poll will be announced Oct. 14 on "Good Morning, America," ABC says.)

Friday's show recreates Kennedy's slaying and Oswald's capture in Dallas, Tex. Sunday's show stages what the trial producer Richard Freed thinks Oswald might have had, had not Ruby killed the ex-Marine.

For Freed, the two programs conclude a project he says he began in 1965, two years before a short-lived Broadway play, also called "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald," hit the boards.

He said he bought that play by Avram Ducavny and Leon Friedman mainly for rights to its title, but that none of his movie, written by Robert E. Thompson, draws from the stage version.

While preparing his mock "trial" of Oswald, he said, he consulted heavily with top prosecutors and criminal lawyers on how they would have handled the trial, had it ever occurred.

The idea of the movie, he added, is to show evidence in Kennedy's slaying "in a courtroom context, in an adversary context."

The Warren Commission, which says Oswald killed Kennedy and acted alone, and critics of the commission all have had their say, he noted, "but they've never really come into an arena where they'd compete with each other."

He concedes that because there never was a trial, Sunday's battles of prosecution and defense had to be invented, a word he still insists is "not totally appropriate."

"What we've done is not so much to invent things, but draw from the record (of the commission and other sources) and make a logical conclusion about the way people would respond," he says.

He was asked if ABC's lawyers cited "fairness doctrine" problems with the show, if they felt some viewers might petition the Federal Communications Commission for air time on ABC to respond to what they felt were distortions of fact on the Oswald program.

No, Freed said, adding that "ABC from the outset certainly addressed itself to that consideration. They wanted this to be fair and responsible, and so did we."

Isn't there a danger in mixing re-enacted fact with hypothetical conclusions in a trial that never occurred?

"There are two choices," Freed said. "One is never to deal with historical fact or a 'what if' premise. The other is to say we'll do that kind of program, approach it with the greatest amount of responsibility people can apply to this kind of subject matter."

"As far as I'm concerned, I think there's a need for this kind of material. Because the American public was deprived of the trial when Jack Ruby killed Oswald two days after the assassination."

"I think there's a strong emotional need for this kind of material to be presented, as well as an intellectual and judicial need for it."

State High Court Says Judge Must Decide On Entrapment

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A judge, not the jury, must decide whether a defendant was trapped into committing a crime by the police, the state Supreme Court ruled Tuesday.

The high court said that giving judges the power to rule on entrapment will provide guidelines for courts and police on just what is permitted in fighting crime. And, it said, it will protect juries from being swayed by hearing evidence on the conduct of the police.

In judging a defendant's claim of entrapment, the court said, the judge must consider the conduct of law enforcement officers, and not whether the defendant was leaning toward committing the crime in the first place.

The purpose of the entrapment doctrine, it ruled, is to deter unlawful government activities and to block possible court approval of illegal activities.

The court made its ruling in considering the appeal of two minor criminal cases. Both defendants had claimed they were entrapped by police, one to sell drugs and the other to break into a building.

In both cases, the circuit court judge let the jury decide whether police trapped the defendants into committing the crimes. In addition to judging their guilt or innocence. Both juries voted to convict the defendant.

The Court of Appeals overturned the lower court decisions, ruling the judge, not the jury, should have ruled on entrapment. The prosecutors appealed to the Supreme Court, which agreed.

The court made its ruling in a 5-1 decision, with Justice G. Mennen Williams dissenting. He argued the present guidelines on entrapment hinder police work, and a jury should have some say in whether the police's conduct was proper.

Goat Wearing Dress Sells For $1,785

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — West Texas cattlemen paid $1,700 for a rooster and $1,785 for a goat wearing a bonnet and dress, but the sales weren't the work of a fast-talking con artist. They were part of an auction held Monday to benefit a treatment center for the handicapped. A total of $127,530 was raised by selling cattle and other animals. Workers called the day's sales the most successful in the auction's last 18 years.

Canada Goes Metric Now

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — Ontario police who have been giving motorists a break during the introductory days of the metric system are going to play for real now.

The new Canadian highway marking system went into effect Sept. 6 with the old miles-per-hour signs replaced by signs stating the limit in kilometers per hour.

Bo Reprimanded Again

"Conference rules are pretty explicit," Canham added. "The first time calls for a reprimand. The second time there's a series of different penalties. Bo and I discussed that problem. There's nothing anyone can do. It's a conference rule."

In his reprimand Tuesday, Duke said he found it "unfortunate" to have to cite Schembachler for the violation, but added, "If the basic tenets of sound sportsmanship embodied in this code are to be achieved, the code must be administered and accepted by all parties."

Pro Sports Watchdog Group Backed By Nader

In cases where FANS believes sports fans have been defrauded, Gruenstein said he will go to the Federal Trade Commission or the courts, seeking full refunds.

Grinstein said fans will need between 10,000 and 20,000 members, each paying $9 a year in dues, in order to get off the ground.

St. Joe has lost two straight to Norrix but still holds a 9-4-1 series edge. Norrix has been the league champ the last two years under coach Don Blanchard.

Other Big Eight games this weekend will match Holland and Niles, now 0-1 in the league and 1-1 overall. The Vikings have played one less game than everyone else in southwestern Michigan, but running back Leonard Fowler is still No. 2 in rushing in the area with 373 yards. He also shares second in scoring with 32 points.

Other Big Eight action matches Lakeview against Portage Northern (0-1) and Portage Central and Kalamazoo-Central. St. Joseph and Portage Northern are the only league teams with overall losing records. Both stand at 1-2.

Laker Girls Are Perfect

Winning Streak At Five With Rout Of Beavers

Lake Michigan Catholic ran its winning string to five straight on the season and grabbed a share of first place with four other teams on the first night of Red Arrow Conference girls' basketball play Tuesday night.

Big guns for the Lakers in their 56-38 rout of Eau Claire were Helen McQuillan and Shelly Schmid with 17 points each and Carol Lomonaco with 12.

In other Red Arrow openers, Burrier Springs outmatched Watervliet 56-35, Bridgman busy making things tough for the Eissons with fine performances by Chris Svorek, who hit four-for-seven and tossed in one charity toss for nine points, Chris Anzlov, who added seven points, and Sarah Walsh who grabbed nine rebounds.

Sue Heller had 17 points to lead the Geels past Hartford. Kathy Hickok and Sue Chesser pulled in 10 rebounds apiece.

Hartford's Lori Shindel-decker was the game's highest scorer with 20 points.

Gallen won the junior varsity game, 29-23.

as the fine playing of Laker guards McCullian and Schmid."

The Shamrocks got off to a slow start in their conference home opener against Watervliet. "We couldn't buy a basket in the first half," Shamrock coach Carolyn Crawford commented on the low 6-4 first quarter score. "The basket just had a lid over it at first."

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers are signing a 47-year-old insurance salesman to their active roster, but he's no Walter Mitty.

He's Al Ciotte, a right-hander who pitched for the Tigers in 1988 and with five other major league baseball teams between 1967 and 1982.

Ciotte, who makes his home in suburban Belleville, will be the 10th oldest pitcher in the major leagues.

The Shamrocks soon put it all together though, and outscored the Panthers 62-31 in the remaining quarters.

Cathy Doeppfer was the game's leading scorer with 18. Denise Schuch added 12 and Jackie Backus got 10 for the Shamrocks. Margee Curtis netted 11 for the losers.

The move enables Cicotte to qualify for the major league players pension plan.

His signing had the approval of the Major League Baseball Players Association and the American League, the Tigers said.

JONES FIELDING ACE
In 1979, Randy Jones of the San Diego Padres set a major league fielding record for pitchers, handling 113 chances without an error.

HARTFORD — Dick Pfeifer has resigned as head boys basketball coach at Hartford high school.

The Hartford school board Monday night also accepted the resignations of Ed Gustafson, varsity track coach; and Dick Patterson, varsity baseball coach.

Pfeifer guided the Indians to a 10-9 record last winter. Hartford's first winning cage season in seven seasons. The Indians finished in third place in the Red Arrow Conference standings during the 1976-77 season.

"We tried to build a successful program here and we succeeded last year," commented Pfeifer 30. "We want from last place when we started to this place last season.

"I just felt this was as good a time as any to step down. I was getting tired of the long hours and the pressure. This winter can relax. I'll just sit out this year and see what happens."

Pfeifer will continue in his position as varsity girls basketball coach.

Gustafson forged a highly successful track program in 14 years at Hartford. During that stretch his teams won eight straight Red Arrow crowns while never losing a dual meet.

In 1966 his Indians won the regional title and were state runners-up.

"I think the big thing for us is the mental attitude of our team," declares Cornet Coach Bob Irvin. "After dropping three close ones we just have to rebound and get on the winning ways. It's going to be a big mental challenge this week."

Irvin has a lot of respect for the Buchanan offense, which ranks third in the area in rushing yardage (637).

"They certainly have improved over last year. They must certainly have a good offensive team. Even in their two losses their offense was pretty impressive. We're just going to have to do the job defensively."

The game will feature two of the area's top quarterbacks.

While the Buchanan offense has sparkled, the defense has been racked for an average of 29 points per game while giving up 333 yards a contest.

Brandywine and Cassopolis are both 3-0 with the Bobcats ranked No. 8 and the Rangers No. 11 in this week's poll in Class C. The two should extend their winning streaks Friday. Brandywine has won five straight over two seasons and Cassopolis six in a row.

CHICAGO (AP) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley has been released from a hospital where he had undergone open heart surgery earlier this month to correct a coronary blockage, a spokesman said.

Doctors at Northwestern Memorial Hospital said Tuesday that Finley, "in good condition and great spirits," is expected to make a complete recovery within six weeks.

Finley, 56, was hospitalized Sept. 11 complaining of chest pains and underwent a four-hour bypass operation on Sept. 15 to relieve blockage in the major vein that carries blood to the heart.

NO FREE PASSES
The 1978 National League Young winner, Randy Jones of San Diego, also tied a record for consecutive innings with a walk, going through without a pass.

DETROIT (AP)—A Veteran Guard Dave Bing, who announced his retirement from the National Basketball Association on Monday, says he'll sign a two-year contract with the NBA's Boston Celtics today.

"I know it sounds strange after saying I had hung it up," Bing said Tuesday night. "But I got a call from Red Auerbach the next day and he wanted to talk to me right away. He made me an offer I couldn't refuse."

Marcellus, Gobles Post Big SAC Cage Victories

Marcellus continues to have little trouble with their fellow SAC members in girls basketball play.

The Wildcats rolled over Lawton Tuesday night 59-15 for their third straight league win and fifth in a row overall.

Lawton did hold an early 8-4 lead over Marcellus. But the Wildcats scored the next 31 points and the game was never in doubt after that. Marcellus led 16-8 at the end of the first quarter, 31-8 at halftime and 48-13 after three quarters.

Bonny Kline tallied 12 points to lead Marcellus. Robin Stewart tossed in six to top Lawton, now 0-2 in SAC play and 0-4 overall.

Lawton won the battle of junior varsity unbeatens 33-25.

Gobles crushed Martin 50-20 in another SAC game. The winners raced to a 33-7 halftime lead and were never headed.

The winners, now 1-2 in SAC play, got 15 points from Alice Johnson. Sandy Warner tallied eight for Martin, now 0-2.

Another SAC encounter saw Judy Bonimersheim and Vickie Darling net 12 and 11 points, respectively, while leading Lawrence to a 56-25 triumph over Bloomingdale. Mel Dittlinger tallied 12 for the losers.

"We pressed them in the first quarter and held them scoreless," noted Lawrence coach Twilla Gibbons. The Tigers led 16-0 after the first quarter, 26-9 at halftime and 42-13 after three periods.

Lawrence is now 2-0 in the league and 4-1 overall. Bloomingdale did win the junior varsity preliminary 30-29.

Panthers Get Past Hartford

HARTFORD — Tim Lynch finished first in 10:01 while leading Watervliet to a 25-20 Red Arrow cross country victory over Hartford here Tuesday.

Watervliet also had Mark Kappel in fourth, Frazee fifth, Bettich sixth and Hurst ninth. Hartford pointmakers were Russ Gibson in second (16:08), Dennis Frazier third, Mike Bassett seventh, Fred Bower eighth and Steve Buchholz 10th.

Grace Loses

WATERVLIET — Grace Christian's soccer team fell into a three-way tie for first by dropping a 2-1 decision in Mattawan Tuesday. Kevin Swartz scored the only Grace goal as the hosts fell to 3-1 in the year. Mattawan and New Hope are also 3-1.

Trounce RV To Remain Unbeaten

Buchanan Cagers Devastating

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Fred Knittel calls them devastating.

And before the season is over, many of the opponents of Buchanan's girls basketball team will probably echo the River Valley coach's opinion.

The Bucks established themselves as the favorite in the Blossomland race Tuesday by smashing the defending league champion Mustangs 57-34.

And if anyone would have the right to assess Buchanan, it would be Knittel. All he did was direct River Valley to 21 straight wins last year before the Mustangs lost to Marine City in the Class B state championship game.

"No question about it," Knittel says. "They're the team to beat. They run the first break real well and play an excellent zone defense. They controlled the boards and we were unable to get back on defense."

And not even an injury to 6-1 center Patience Vanderbush could stop Buchanan from getting its fourth straight victory. Vanderbush sprained her ankle midway through the third quarter.

It may just be, however, that the injury to Vanderbush revealed the key to Buchanan this season.

"Our team play has been our real strength," Buchanan coach Ray Berry says. "The girls are always looking for their open teammate. And the girls take their turns. We have had a number of fast break baskets and they seem to balance out among the players."

Berry is in his fourth year as Buchanan coach. And the former Buck boys leader has directed Buchanan to a sparkling 49-15 record in that time.

Experience has been his team's trademark this year. Four of the five starters are playing for the third straight year under Berry. This season's team is averaging 60 points a game, while giving up just 36.

Topping the list, of course, is the consistent Vanderbush. The four-year regular has scored 1,132 points in her career and is averaging 17.3 this time around.

"Patience is just a good athlete," Berry says. "What more can you say. She's a good shooter, a good rebounder and a great defensive player. She can do all of the things that you ask a basketball player to do. And she has a great deal of determination."

But Vanderbush is not the whole show this season. Joining Patience for the third straight year are 5-9 twins Karen and Lynn Bobo, averaging 16 points a game between them, and 5-9 forward Sharon Rottman (11.8).

"There's no substitute for experience," Berry says. "And all of the girls have another year's experience over last year. The girls are doing little things like the commu pick and roll better than they have."

They're just doing the little things that you pick up by playing together for a certain length of time."

Probably the most important factor, though, is junior new-comeer Tracee Hargreaves. The plait-sized 5-2 guard transferred in from Niles this past summer. Hargreaves, a slick ballhandler, is averaging 10.8 points per game.

"That little guard is the difference for Buchanan," Knittel says of Hargreaves. "They're primarily the same team as last year except for her."

"Now they have somebody who can get the ball down the floor. That was their problem last year."

And Hargreaves was all over the floor against River Valley. The little speedster tussled in 15 points and collected five steals.

"Tracee adds team speed," Berry says. "She is the quarterback and directs the offense very well."

Buchanan dominated every facet of the game against the Mustangs. The Bucks burned the nets on 26 of 50 shots (52 percent), while holding River Valley to just 17 of 62 (27 percent).

The Bucks held a 38-21 board edge with Rottman grabbing nine rebounds and Vanderbush and Lynn Bobo eight apiece.

Julie Gnodtke was the whole story for the Mustangs with 12 points and 11 rebounds.

But as awesome as Buchanan has been on the court, it is the team's off-the-court qualities which impress Berry the most.

"The girls are just fun to be around," he says. "They like to joke with one another and they don't take themselves too seriously. As a result they have fun with one another."

In other Blossomland action

Tuesday, Cassopolis stayed unbeaten by clipping Lakeshore, 75-69. Brandywine crushed Coloma 55-40 and Dowagiac smashed Edwardsburg 47-28.

Russell Ventress and Billie Gains were the Rangers one-two punch. Ventress tossed in 25 points and Gains added 20 more as Cass ran its record to 5-4.

The Rangers outscored the Lancers 43-37 in the second half to take the win.

Kim Foster scored 27 points and Jamie Sinkiewicz 24 for the losers.

Teresa Duncan scored 14 points in Brandywine's win. The Bobcats broke the game open by outscoring the Cornels 24-13 in the final quarter.

Vicki Williams scored 21 points and Kathy Lettke added 10 in Dowagiac's victory.

ankle and was carried off the floor, but her teammates went on to an easy 57-34 Blossomland basketball victory over River Valley. (Staff photo)

New Punter Gets Passing Grades

More 'Kicks' For Lions

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — "The Detroit Lions' kicking game is getting a kick in the pants this week, but the team's holding problems appear to have been put on hold."

Coach Tommy Hudspeth doesn't seem all that upset about the eight holding penalties the Lions suffered Sunday in their 23-18 National Football League triumph over the New Orleans Saints.

However, he said Tuesday he intends to have the Lions put in extra work on their kicking game to try and shed some of the errors that have plagued Detroit in its two games.

"We need to make sure it's thoroughly covered in two days," Hudspeth said at his weekly news conference. "Extra emphasis needs to be put on the punting game and return game."

Concerning the holding infractions — long a problem with the Lions — Hudspeth said: "I don't think we're doing anything different than other teams, so I don't know (what to do about it). Yeah, you can see holding in the films. But you can see holding on every play."

Kicking, like holding penalties, has been a Lions problem from the first day of training camp.

Also, placekicker Steve Mike-

Mayer missed a 37-yard field goal and a point-after-touchdown conversion.

Hudspeth said normally the Lions cover kicking one day a week. However, for Sunday's home encounter against the Philadelphia Eagles, "We're going to try to double up in this area," he said.

Centering on snaps will get a lot of attention, he added, because "this is a serious situation. We've got to get down on it."

Hudspeth said he would stick with Markovich as a center on kick formations because regular center Jon Morris hasn't snapped on punts and kickoffs for a long time.

Markovich's poor snaps might be due to him "not concentrating as much because he's winded," Hudspeth said.

Summers, meanwhile, got passing grades from Hudspeth for his first-game performance as a Lion — despite averaging just 27 yards on six punts.

"I think the kid has good mechanics," Hudspeth said. "He punts the ball like we like, but you can't expect him to come in overnight and have everything happen good."

The Lions acquired Summers as a free agent last Thursday. He was released three weeks ago by Buffalo. Summers replaced Mitch Thompes, who averaged 39 yards punting in Detroit's opening loss to Chicago, but drew Hudspeth's wrath over a punt returned for a touchdown and another blocked.

Laker Golfers Down Mustangs

LAKEVILLE — Lake Michigan Catholic's boys golf team won its fourth dual match in a row Tuesday, knocking off River Valley 174-184 at Chikaming golf course.

The Lakers top scorers were Jeff Glendening 40, Jay Franklin 41, Dave Takacs 45 and Bruce Conybeare 48.

River Valley's top golfers were Fred Brecht 42, Mark Magnuson 45, Mark Dooley 48 and Rick Rogers 49.

Eddies Sweep

EDWARDSBURG — Edwardsburg topped Lakeshore 46-43 in an eighth-grade basketball game here Tuesday. Marsha Lausman hit 14 points for the Lancers. In a seventh-grade contest, the Eddies won 30-25 with Kristen Carr earning 10 for the losers.

Bo Calls Aggies' Kicker 'Greatest'

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — What the Detroit Lions — or any other National Football League team, for that matter — wouldn't give to get Tony Franklin.

But alas, the Texas A&M barefoot kicker is only a junior.

Coach Bo Schembechler of Michigan probably wishes Franklin was a senior — last year. Then he wouldn't have to worry about him Saturday when the third-ranked Wolverines play at home against the No. 5 Aggies.

Schembechler calls Franklin, "the greatest kicker in football."

"You don't get returns," he said, "and you don't get field position."

Michigan has prided itself on its defense during Schembechler's nine-year tenure, but this season's Wolverines have had much more trouble holding opponents' offenses so far. If they can't keep Coach Emory Bellard's Aggies in their own territory, they'll have to worry about Franklin.

"He can kick a field goal anytime from midfield," Schembechler said.

Last week A&M, ranked sixth, met seventh-ranked Texas Tech and won 33-17 on the strength of Franklin's field goals of 48, 26, 31 and 39 yards.

Last year as a sophomore, Franklin twice in one game set the National Collegiate Athletic Association field goal record. His first one was a 64-yarder and he bettered that with a 65-yard kick.

This season he has made all 10 of his touchdown conversion kicks and has hit on six of 10 field goal tries. His misses came from 51, 54, 59 and 65 yards out.

Spec Gammon, A&M's sports information director, said Franklin kicked a practice field goal 75 yards.

Franklin is a 5-foot-9, 170-pounder from Fort Worth, Texas. This is his third season as the Aggies placekicker. Last year he was on the All Southwestern Conference team.

Michigan's kickers are Nick Labun and Gregg Willner. Labun handles kickoffs and Willner the point-after tries and field goal attempts. He missed a 29-yard field goal try in the Wolverines' 14-7 triumph last Saturday over Navy.

Texas A&M's punter is David Appleby. He averaged 46 yards in five punts against Tech, including booming kicks of 63 and 59 yards.

His counterpart for the Wolverines is John Anderson. He is having a banner year as a linebacker, but his punting hasn't been very good. Although he's been kicking long, he's been booting line drives.

Punters are often measured by "bang time," that is, how long their punt hang up in the air to allow defenders to rush down the field.

"I'm just not getting enough height on them," Anderson said. "I guess I'm in a slump as far as kicking, but I'm working on it."

Anderson is averaging 42.4 yards. Only one Michigan punter has ever surpassed that distance average for a season.

A&M Standout Is Hospitalized

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — George Woodward, fifth-ranked Texas A&M's 227-pound fullback, has been hospitalized in Bryan, Texas, for possible appendicitis.

Woodward complained of pain and was admitted to St. Joseph Hospital on Tuesday. Details of the illness were not clear.

Woodward, who has a 42-inch waist and 30-inch thighs, is the Aggies second leading rusher with 291 yards in 60 carries — a 4.9 average. He leads A&M with four touchdowns in two games and has a 51-yard run to his credit this season.

Texas A&M plays at No. 3-ranked Michigan on Saturday before a national television audience.

Lions Burning Over Heat

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Lions are hot under the collar about the heat under the roof at the Pontiac Silverdome during last Sunday's National Football League game.

Coach Tommy Hudspeth suspects it's the Detroit Pistons' fault.

It was so warm at the stadium Sunday that the Lions tired easily and had to receive oxygen on the sidelines during their 23-19 victory over the New Orleans Saints.

"They had the heat turned on Friday," Hudspeth said Tuesday. "It was really warm in there Sunday."

Hudspeth nodded in the affirmative when asked if he thought the heat was turned on because the Pistons of the National Basketball Association had a news conference Monday announcing their move to the Silverdome for next season.

One of the prime questions about the move from Cobo Arena in Detroit was whether the Silverdome would be warm enough for basketball in midwinter. There had been some criticism following rock concerts and other events at the 80,000-seat facility that it was uncomfortably chilly.

Pistons officials, however, have been assured that there will be sufficient heat now at the Silverdome with the installation of a new heating unit.

Oscar Feldman, Pistons legal counsel and a limited partner in the team, said a provision of the club's five-year lease with the Silverdome guarantees the stadium will be heated to 70 degrees for games.

As primary tenants, however, the Lions have first choice of dates for their exhibition and regular season games. The portable basketball court cannot be laid down when the Lions are practicing.

Feldman said the Pistons will have to find another practice site next year until the football season ends in late December.

Also Tuesday, the Lions announced the signing of tight end Bill Larson, a free agent released after one game with the Washington Redskins this season.

To make room for him the Lions released defensive back and specialty teams player Randy Rich, a free agent rookie from the University of New Mexico.

Larson was acquired because the Lions have been using a two tight end offense and he becomes insurance in case anything happens to regulars Charlie Sanders or David Hill.

Larson, a 6-foot-4, 235-pounder, played in all 14 games with the San Francisco 49ers in 1976, mostly on special teams but two as a starter. The Oakland Raiders signed him in 1976 and he joined the Redskins in March of this year. He was cut after the first game.

The 24-year-old Larson played college ball at Colorado State.

Face Irish Saturday At South Bend Spartans Must Stop Pass

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan State Coach Darryl Rogers was discussing how his Michigan State Spartans stack up against Notre Dame this week when he suddenly was interrupted.

Rogers was talking to Chicago Football Writers in a telephone interview Tuesday when someone asked if he had ever been to Notre Dame Stadium.

Rogers chuckled and said, "No, but I know what you're driving at. I've heard rumors that there is a great deal of noise down there but there's nothing you can do to prepare for that."

Rogers, however, will try to prepare his Spartans in other areas of the game, like pass defense.

"We've had difficulty stopping the pass," said Rogers in somewhat of an understatement. Michigan State lives by the pass and has completed 44 of 82 for 626 yards and three touchdowns. The opposition has completed 48 of 83 for four touchdowns.

"We know Notre Dame can pass and in Ken MacAfee they have one of the great light ends in the country," said Rogers. "But Notre Dame also has a potentially strong running game."

"You can't just defend against the pass," said Rogers. "You must stop the running attack first."

Michigan State can expect to face quarterback Joe Montana who came off the bench last Saturday to rally Notre Dame from a 10-point deficit to a 31-24 victory over Purdue.

Both teams have 2-1 records although Notre Dame was expected to be undefeated at this point of the season.

"When people play Notre Dame, they get up for the game and I hope we'll do the same thing," said Rogers. "You can't hide good talent and Notre Dame has great talent."

While Rogers was worried about the 14th-ranked Irish, Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler discussed the problems his third-ranked Wolverines will have against No. 5 Texas A&M in one of the nation's top attractions this week.

The fact that the Wolverines fell out of the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press poll didn't bother Schembechler. He said, "The only thing that surprises me is that we're ranked higher than Texas A&M."

"They could very well be the best team in the country. We could be, too, but we'll have to wait at least until after this game."

Schembechler said the fact that Michigan dropped in the poll "didn't surprise me. From a motivation standpoint, it could help."

Schembechler also admitted that his Wolverines have not been up in any of their first three victories.

Willpower Is Ali's Best Weapon

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali admits he is not the fighter he once was, and obviously Earnie Shavers will try and cash in on that fact Thursday night when Ali defends his heavyweight title at Madison Square Garden.

Shavers will find the greatest stumbling block in his path to the title is not Ali's left jab, his quick combinations of footwork. Those weapons have faded with age and constant combat.

He didn't: Ali did. In 30 seconds of exhaustion, Ali proved he was a champion; Norton proved he was not.

"Retiring champion — with my title — means more to me," says the 35-year-old Ali, "than having $20 million and not having the title."

SJ Girls Win

Defense continues to be the key ingredient for St. Joseph's girls basketball team.

A tenacious defense helped the Bears carve a 29-25 victory over Kalamazoo Central Tuesday night in a Big Eight game.

Niles nipped Portage Northern 39-38 in another league game Tuesday.

"We played good defense," St. Joe coach Rick Bloodworth said. "We kept them away from the basket. We just did not give up too many easy shots."

The Bears, now 1-1 in league play and 3-2 overall, led all the way, holding quarter margins of 7-1, 17-11 and 25-15. Central rallied to within two at 27-25, but Michelle Pfeiffer led the win with two free throws with seven seconds left.

Carol Silverthorn led St. Joe with six points. Pat Wampach added 13 rebounds. Bloodworth also singled out the play of freshman Amy Porritt, who collected two key steals and two baskets.

St. Joe also won the junior varsity game 28-25. Terry Lukits scored 10 points, including the winning basket with five seconds left.

Jeanette Allen tossed in 11 points and pulled down 15 rebounds as Niles won its season opener. Kim Works added eight points, and Marie Merrill had eight points and nine assists.

Ali's 17-year pro career and 56 fights is his determination to retire as world heavyweight champion. Not even with boxing's hardest punch will Shavers find a counter-weapon to Ali's courage or willpower.

In Ali's last serious title defense — almost a year ago against Ken Norton in Yankee Stadium — Norton found himself with a chance to become champion. Ali had to do was throw punches in the last 30 seconds of the 15th round.

Ali concedes that Shavers' only chance is his devastating punching power. In 54 victories, Shavers has knocked out 52 opponents, the highest knockout percentage of any heavyweight in history. He kayoed Jimmy Young in one round and Jimmy Ellis in three rounds in 1973, and last April he knocked out Howard Smith in two rounds.

"His best shot is to knock me out before he gets tired," says Ali, "and that's seven rounds." "If he's as slow as he looks, as shiftless as he looks," says Ali,

"I won't have to dance, just move back and forth a little bit."

Along with packing a dynamite punch, Shavers also packs a glass jaw. Three of Shavers' five losses have been by knockout — Ron Stander in five rounds, Jerry Quarry in one and Ron Lyle in six.

All three probably swung with more authority than Ali does now, but Shavers will go down from a combination of fatigue and accumulative punches. Only seven times in 60 fights has Shavers gone 10 rounds, never longer.

Ali has predicted knockouts between rounds four and seven. Shavers thinks he can take out Ali in seven.

This corner says Shavers will go in eight.

Rough Red Wing Tactics Not Likely To Bring Wins

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer

OPINION: When is somebody going to inform the Detroit Red Wings that it's much more difficult to win hockey games when the other team nearly always has more players on the ice.

I haven't yet figured out why some hockey people seem to think penalties are the greatest thing since sex. When they're scouting amateur talent they're hung up on how many penalty minutes a player has accumulated rather than how well he skates, passes or scores goals.

Give me a team like the Montreal Canadiens any day and I'll give you a Stanley Cup champion. The Canadiens are skaters, not fighters. They win. The Philadelphia Flyers became famous for their bullying. But they had skaters and talent to go with their tough guys.

Ted Lindsay, Detroit's new general manager, spearheaded a drive to make the Red Wings a rough-and-tumble team. "Aggressive hockey is back in Detroit," the team's ads proclaim.

That would be fine if "aggressive hockey" didn't mean to substitute skating and goal scoring with head smashing. But if exhibition games are any indication, that's apparently what can be expected of the newest version of the Red Wings, coached by Bobby Krumm for the first time.

The other day Detroit lost 6-1 to Pittsburgh. The game was marred by 38 penalties, including 10 majors for fighting and 108 penalty minutes.

Four of the Penguins goals came on power plays. In case you're not a follower of hockey, that means some Red Wings had guy broke the rules — and maybe even somebody's head open — and was banished to the penalty box. That gives the other team an extra player for the length of the penalty, perhaps two minutes or maybe even five.

One of Pittsburgh's goals came when the Red Wings had two men in the penalty box.

But at least "aggressive hockey is back in Detroit."

What has happened, it seems to me, is that Lindsay and Krumm saw no alternative to rough-house hockey because they simply don't have players who can win strictly on talent.

If they can't battle a good team on even terms talent-wise, they can at least intimidate them and hope to get enough victories to perhaps climb out of the division cellar ahead of Washington.

Lindsay inherited a ragtag bunch. He had no control over the mess his predecessors left for him. His "aggressive" hockey campaign appears to be a stopgap effort to buy time until he builds the organization back up with better quality players.

Maybe he doesn't have much of a choice. But while Steve Durbano is sitting in the penalty box and the fans are cheering because he crashed someone into the boards, the Red Wings are going to be the victims of a power play goal.

Many fans like to see fights at hockey games, there's little doubt about that. But how long can such tactics draw crowds if victories don't go with them?

Boyd Spurs Tigers

MUSKEGON — Benton Harbor used a big third quarter to get by Muskegon Catholic 58-48 in an LMAC girls basketball game Tuesday.

The Tigers, trailing 20-24 at halftime, outscored Catholic 23-7 in the third quarter to take the victory.

Denise Boyd was the big gun for Benton Harbor, scoring 20 points. Fifteen of the points came during the decisive third period. Rutha Bragg added 13 and Sheryl Finley had 12.

Benton Harbor is now 3-0 in LMAC play and 4-2 overall.

The Tigers also took the junior varsity game 41-13 with Linda King scoring 15 points.

Wave Of Elvis Gimmicks Will Become Flood

THE KING LIVES ON: We're going to be engulfed in a wave of Elvis Presley memorabilia that will totally eclipse the endless remembrances of Marilyn Monroe and James Dean. The sales of Presley's records since his death have been staggering and the prices for his early records, which were collectors' items, have skyrocketed. A number of retrospective film programs are being put every day.

Q: I know Natalie Wood is planning to produce a movie, but has she quit acting? Seems to me I haven't seen her in a movie in years. — L.L., Memphis, Tenn.

A: Natalie hasn't made a feature film in five years. However she decided recently that she was tired of doing the cute Hollywood couple number with her husband, Robert Wagner. Not to say Natalie and R.J. aren't happy, just that she wants to do something on her own. So coming up you'll have Natalie and Sean Connery in "The Meteor." Later on she'll try her hand at producing.

Q: Paddy Chayefsky really roared television in the movie, "Network." Are there any other films taking on the TV industry in the works? — H.A., Augusta, Maine.

A: If it comes off, "Game Show" could wind up going even farther than "Network." The movie is about a quiz show of the future in which the contestant trying for the top prize wins either a million dollars or is killed on camera. Kirk Douglas has been offered the role of the unscrupulous producer and Nick Nolte is being sought to play the contestant who takes a chance only because he's in lock to the Mafia. Stay tuned.

Q: I just heard that if you write to your congressman he'll send you an American flag that flew over the nation's Capitol on your child's birthday. Is this really true? — O.V., Farmington, Conn.

A: Yes, and this souvenir flag operation has turned into quite an astonishing government project. On an average day a staff of seven people whip 125 flags up and down five flagpoles so they did fly over the Capitol while five other staffers are busily typing out certificates that are sent along with the flags.

Q: Is Brenda Vaccaro bitter her ill-fated, short-lived marriage? — P.Z., Gainesville, Fla.

A: Not a bit. She's plunged back into work and is really quite funny about her marital disaster. "Otherwise, just think of the wedding presents I would have had to wrap up and return."

CELEBRITIES HIT THE BOOKS: Actresses Joan Collins and Colleen Dewhurst are both hard at work writing autobiographies. Should be fascinating reading. While unemployment was going up all over the country, Harrah's added over six per cent to its work force... Overheard at the Concord: "I'm on a great diet — I lose weight just thinking about it!"

HELPFUL HINTS: If dish-washing detergents make you sneeze, try baking soda for your next KP stint. It makes glasses and dishes sparkle... Paint the frame of your license plate with luminous paint and you'll find your car easily in a parking lot at night.

World Tourney Slated For New Game 'Othello'

By EILEEN ALT POWELL
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Fans of the board game Othello have something new to flip over. Othello — like chess, backgammon and even Monopoly before it — has developed an international tournament.

Champions from around the world will compete in Tokyo on Oct. 29 for the title, said a spokesman for Gabriel Industries Inc., the American distributor of the game.

The game is played by two people who alternate putting disks — white on one side, black on the other — on the 64 squares of a green playing field. The object is to outflank an opponent's disks, flip them and end up with the majority of either black or white disks showing on the board.

Some 25 million Japanese play, according to the Gabriel spokesman. U.S. sales hit 500,000 last year and are expected to top one million in 1977, thanks in part to heavy television advertising.

Among Othello fans are old chess hounds and college students at Caltech and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where computers have been programmed for competition.

One contender for the U.S. championship, Mark Weinberg, 30, of Potomac, Md., says he plays Othello with his 3½-year-old daughter.

"The black and white pieces are attractive to the kid," he said, "and she knows pretty much what a legal move is."

Weinberg says he is looking forward to national and international competition because local opponents have been hard to find.

"Some of my chess and backgammon friends play, and so does my wife Joanne," he said. "But there just aren't many players here of my strength. I win about 20 of 21 games, and people don't like to play against that."

So how is he preparing for the international meet?

He's competing via mail with one of the world's best players — Fumio Fujita, Japan's 1976 national champion. The two met last year when Fujita toured the United States. Weinberg was one of few American players able to defeat the Japanese expert.

"He (Fujita) devised a score sheet, which he mails to me with a move marked in," Weinberg explained. "I make a move and send the sheet back."

The week it takes to get the letters back and forth has proved too slow, Weinberg said, "so we're considering starting 10 games at once to step up the pace."

Othello was devised by Goro Hasegawa of Japan in 1971 and named for a Shakespearean character.

Acceptance has been so good that this year Gabriel has introduced a Tournament Othello set, selling for about twice the $10 price of the basic board, and a new handbook by Hasegawa, "How to Win at Othello."

Local champions were selected in August and September in cities around the world, including a dozen in the United States. Regional playoffs are scheduled in Washington, St. Louis, Houston and San Francisco Oct. 8, and the four winners will compete in New York Oct. 15 for the U.S. championship.

The winner will get a trip for two to Tokyo for the international competition.

"We expect hundreds to compete in each city," the spokesman said. "But the tournament is limited to people. No computers allowed."

22 Area Students Win CMU Degrees

MT. PLEASANT — A total of 22 students from southwestern Michigan were awarded degrees at Central Michigan University here following winter session in May.

Receiving bachelor's degrees were: Carol Starnard, Benton Harbor; Polly Teramo and Patrick Calhoun, Bridgman; Pamela Ancloski and Susan Johnson, Coloma; Teresa Tischer, Gallen; Judith Froske and Wayne Nelson, Niles; Daniel O'Connell, Sawyer; Eric DeLong, Shari DeLong, and Charles Sandusky, Sodus; Richard DeVries, Kimberley; Kline, Joanne Musgrove and Laura Ruppel, St. Joseph; Deborah Legach, Edwardsburg; and Barbara Kirkwood, South Haven.

Tanker Ban Would Up Gas Price?

DETROIT (AP) — The chairman of the American Trucking Association says that despite a recent rash of accidents, double-trailer tank trucks are basically safe.

And to ban them from Michigan highways would mean higher gasoline prices, added Robert H. Shertz.

"He said some of the double-trailer mishaps appeared to have been caused by faulty tires or by errors on the part of drivers who had not been properly trained."

"There is no excuse for such failures of equipment or training, but the solution should be strict enforcement of high standards rather than a ban on the vehicles," Shertz said.

"If you ban them, you are going to create a real problem of distribution," he said.

Shertz said he had no figures on what these higher costs would be or how they would be passed along to motorists.

Referring to the recent rash of double bottom trailer truck accidents in Michigan, Shertz said, "I think we have run into a wave of accidents that have no particular pattern. I don't think this is a problem of the vehicle itself. It is a problem of how it is used."

Seven double-tanker accidents since the first of the year have claimed three lives and injured nine persons in Michigan.

Ford Motor Pondering New World Market Car

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. will decide in October whether to start producing a small car for the world market in 1980, according to a report in a metal industry weekly.

Ford officials today declined comment on the story in American Metal Market.

The report said the car, code named "Frika," would have a transverse engine, front-wheel drive and a strut-type front suspension system. It would cost Ford $400 million to tool its plants and produce the model, the story said.

American Metal Market said if Ford approved the plan, a version of the car for U.S. sales would be introduced for the 1981-model year. It would be produced in the United States, England and several other countries, according to the journal.

The car would replace the Ford Pinto in this country and the Escort in Europe, the report said.

Ford's most fuel-efficient model currently is the Fiesta, a front-wheel drive model made in West Germany. Company Chairman Henry Ford II has said the automaker will not produce the Fiesta here, but is considering a Pinto replacement.

The industry journal said the new car would get better fuel mileage than any Ford car now made in this country.

The report said Ford would likely produce the new cars at its Mexique, N.J., and San Jose, Calif., plants, which turn out Pintos and the Mercury Bobcats. It is also considering making a Canadian version at its St. Thomas, Ont., plant, the story said.

American Metal Market said Ford officials are also considering making an even smaller car for 1981.

Fungus Threatens Douglas Fir

DETROIT (AP) — The stately Douglas fir, described as the Cadillac of the Christmas tree line, may become scarce because of a fungus disease, a University of Michigan Professor says.

Professor Harrison Morton of the U-M School of Natural Resources said the Douglas represents only 1 to 3 per cent of the 42 million Christmas trees growing in the state at any one time.

Morton said the fungus disease, known as Rhabdochloa needle cast, causes needles on the Douglas to brown and drop prematurely.

It has been fairly common on both the East and West coasts but has never before been identified in Michigan or other Great Lakes states, he said.

Morton said he initially observed the disease in 1974 in the Douglas fir, which is not native to Michigan. He said presence of the fungus raises the possibility the disease may be found in other nearby states as well as Michigan.

The fungus can be treated with a fungicide which Morton declined to name since it has not been approved yet by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Writing in a U.S. Agriculture Department publication, Morton said he plans to submit a proposal around Christmas-time documenting its effectiveness and expects no problem in getting it approved before the growing season begins in June.

The Douglas fir sells for about double the price of more common Christmas trees like the Scotch pine, which accounts for 90 per cent of tree sales in Michigan.

The Douglas fir, about $18 to $23 in Michigan, brings $35 or more in Florida or Texas, Morton said.

Affirmative Action Concept On Line In Bakke Case

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court never whispers, but most often the only listeners are lawyers and the individuals immediately affected by a legal controversy's resolution. While the weight of legal precedence — a roadmap for future generations of law — is carried in each Supreme Court decision, relatively few of the high court's edicts earn the adjectives "historic" and "landmark."

They are the decisions that transcend arcane legal questions to influence the nation's history, reshape its institutions or change some aspect of the American lifestyle. Could President Harry Truman seize control of a strikebound steel industry to help a war effort? Could President Richard Nixon refuse to hand over his White House tapes to a federal criminal trial? Could the Constitution permit racial segregation, prayer in public schools or abortion?

In the Supreme Court term that begins next week, one case clearly stands out from the rest because of its potential to do just that. What the nine justices decide in Regents of University of California versus Allan Paul Bakke could dictate what role minority races will play in American society and may affect millions of dollars worth of programs in government, education and private industry.

The Bakke case, as it has come to be known, essentially asks whether government may take a person's race into account when its goal is to help traditionally disadvantaged races. Those who say yes, most notably the Carter administration and the minority civil rights movement, call such consideration "affirmative action." Those who say no, like Bakke, call it "reverse discrimination."

Bakke, a white 37-year-old California resident, was twice turned down for admission to a University of California medical school. He claims he would have been admitted if the school had not maintained a special admissions program, which reserved 16 of the 100 spots in each entering class for "disadvantaged" applicants. A white man was never admitted under the special program.

Bakke successfully argued before the California Supreme Court that he had been victimized by a racial quota, which set for each entering medical school class an inflexible number of minority members it had to contain, even if it harmed better academically qualified whites or led to unqualified minority students entering ahead of them. The California court said such a program violates the Constitution's 14th Amendment, which orders that all persons be treated equally.

The Supreme Court faces two crucial issues: can race ever be considered and if so, are "benign quotas" acceptable. Civil rights leaders say student enrollments at professional schools will be virtually all white if the court strikes down the use of racial considerations, robbing blacks and other minority members of the chance for membership in the professions. But such a ruling could extend beyond education to other government and private affirmative action programs, begun in the 1960s to help bring minorities and women into the American mainstream. How will white citizens who may have lost out on an educational or job opportunity because of such programs react to a court decision upholding them?

In a string of cases, the court already has upheld the use of racial considerations by government so it is unlikely it would now use the 14th Amendment to strike down all affirmative action. But a narrow or restrictive opinion could jeopardize many existing programs. The court could delay, as it did three years ago in the case of a white man denied admission to the University of Washington Law School, addressing the hard issues by finding that the facts of the Bakke case are not suitable. The potential, however, remains for a substantive decision. The listening audience this time will be huge.

Warns Of Latin Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's highest ranking military officer is warning that violence could erupt in Latin America if the Senate refuses to ratify the Panama Canal treaty. Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, made the assertion Tuesday as the Carter administration's military and diplomatic forces defended the pact on Capitol Hill. In his testimony, Brown said a guerrilla warfare campaign from inside Panama would require three divisions or about 100,000 men to assure an adequate force to protect the canal. The Panama agreements would provide for the United States to relinquish control over the canal by the year 2000 and ensure the waterway's continued neutrality.

New PSC Rules Protect Electric, Gas Consumers

The Michigan Public Service Commission has issued rules designed to protect electric and gas customers in the winter months ahead, according to the Senior Citizen Law Center in Niles.

The rules prohibit the premature interruption of the utilities to customers, according to the center, a branch of the Berrien County Legal Services.

Basic rules are:

1. Utilities must bill customers monthly and allow them 21 days to pay.
2. If, at the end of the 21 days the customers have not paid the bill, the utility must issue a 10-day notice before an order to discontinue can be issued.
3. At any time before the end of the 10-day notice period, a customer may make a complaint.
4. The customer shall have the right to at least one day's notice by phone or by posting on the premises before such an order can be carried out, and shut-offs can only take place between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. on a regular business day.

5. The utility and the customer can work out a settlement of a claim in dispute; in such cases the customer has a right to request a time-payment plan in the form of a written settlement agreement.

6. Even if the customer does not dispute the bill, he or she can ask for a time-payment plan, so long as he makes a reasonable down payment and has not broken any previous time-payment agreements.

7. If the dispute cannot be resolved, a customer has a right to a hearing before a power company employee whose only duty is to be a hearing officer.

8. The hearing must be requested within three days of the date a hearing is offered to the customer. The hearing is contingent on payment of the part of the bill in dispute, or if that amount cannot be determined, he must pay 50 per cent of the bill or $100, whichever is less.

9. The customer shall have the right to an attorney or legal assistant of his choosing.

10. If the customer is not satisfied, the results of the company hearing may be appealed to the consumer services division of the Michigan Public Service Commission.

11. No disconnection can take place: While a hearing is pending; or where the customer has on file an unresolved complaint.

12. No disconnection can take place where a customer, such as a landlord, fails to pay for service where service is used by another person, such as a tenant. However, the landlord apparently still has the right to close out the account.

13. No discrimination can take place for 21 days if a customer presents a certificate from a doctor, public health official, or social services worker that a shut-off would aggravate an existing medical emergency. The certificate is renewable on a 21-day basis.

14. Utilities may not require deposits from existing customers unless service has been previously discontinued for non-payment or tampering, or has an account still unpaid.

EPA Says 15 Federal Units In Michigan Are Polluters

CHICAGO (AP) — Fifteen federal facilities in Michigan — including a U.S. Forest Service unit — are violating clean water standards, according to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Dale Bryson, deputy director of the EPA's midwest region enforcement division, said the agency is stepping up its compliance efforts at the 15 facilities found in violation of the federal standards.

The survey included 33 federal facilities including Coast Guard, Air Force and Army units and a national forestry unit.

The violations range from minor ones, such as failing to file a compliance form on time, to major ones, such as exceeding the allowable amount of effluent or pollutants discharged into waterways, according to Carol Fluehman, chief of the Chicago-based EPA District 5 compliance unit.

When such cases are uncovered, Bryson said, "we will contact the federal facility in telephone calls or letters, pointing out the deficiencies."

If the facility fails to correct the problem, he added, there is an "internal escalation process," under which the matter is referred to EPA headquarters in Washington. EPA officials sit down with representatives of the offending agency in an effort to iron the problem.

In extreme or continued cases, Bryson said, the case is referred to the Office of Management and Budget, which controls the purse strings of all federal agencies.

Private industries or municipalities with similar pollution violations may face fines or withdrawal of certain federal funds, EPA said.

The facilities cited in Michigan included Coast Guard, Air Force and Army units and the forestry unit.

Merit Sparks Low Tar Boom!

'Enriched Flavor' tobacco seen as major factor in unprecedented smoker move to low tar.

Since its introduction, MERIT has become one of the most popular new cigarettes in twenty years.

A popularity largely responsible for a significant growth in low tar smoking.

The kind of flavor smokers can switch to—and stick with.

Here are the taste-test results which show why smokers are switching to MERIT. If you smoke, you'll be interested.

100's: 12 mg. "tar," 0.9 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Tests Prove Taste

MERIT and MERIT 100's were both tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes. The results proved conclusively that 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco does boost taste without the usual increase in tar.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Release Plan A Bargain, Says State Executive

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

BERRIEN SPRINGS — An official from the Michigan Department of Corrections last night answered criticisms by Berrien District Judge John T. Hammond on a program in which nonviolent prison inmates are allowed to complete their minimum terms in "halfway houses."

William L. Kime, deputy director of the department's program bureau, said the program allows corrections officials to keep a sharp eye on convicts while saving taxpayers money.

"I think from the standpoint of public protection, it's a real bargain," Kime said of the program, which uses hotels such as the Milner in Benton Harbor and the Four Flugs in Niles.

Kime answered Hammond's criticisms during questioning in a press conference before addressing a meeting of the Berrien County Republican Committee at the Youth Memorial Building here. Kime and Hammond were panelists for a discussion on different phases of the penal system in Michigan.

Hammond in yesterday's Herald-Palladium blasted the corrections department's program as circumventing state law which specifies the minimum amount of time convicts must spend behind bars before they are eligible for parole. The program allows inmates who are believed to be nonviolent to serve the latter parts of their sentences under supervision at what Kime called halfway houses.

"We think it's a very valuable option," Kime said of the program. "It was forced on us by necessity, but it's also a measure we would want to take." He said the necessity was the overcrowding in state prisons.

Kime said he believes the program has two big advantages. He said that because of the tighter supervision of convicts in the program, "we can really keep track of what a person's doing, such as getting into drugs or crime again."

He also noted the program helps "re-integrate" a felon into the community. Kime said a convict is supposed to have a job when he goes on parole, but often the job fizzles or the parolee only holds it briefly.

Under the halfway house program, the convict goes to the center where he will stay and must find work to stay in the program. Most inmates are then able to keep that job when they are paroled, according to Kime.

Those selected for the program must find a job within 30 days and pay all their expenses, including rent, according to Clark Johnson, senior parole-probation agent in charge of the Benton Harbor Correctional facility. Kime said the program is much cheaper than keeping the inmate in prison.

"If we didn't have the program (the inmate) would be in prison and that would cost much more money," Kime commented. He said, however, he did not have specific figures on how much is saved.

Kime cited statistics from James Caldwell, area manager of parole-probation offices in southwestern Michigan, which said 277 inmates have been through the Benton Harbor program since it started in June, 1969.

According to Caldwell, 39 were returned to prison for technical violations, and there were only six new felony convictions. Kime said the new felony conviction rate for parolees statewide is 11 per cent.

"Results have also been good statewide," Kime commented on the halfway house program throughout Michigan.

Kime said that program, along with acquisitions of new prison sites such as St. Augustine seminary near Saugatuck, help ease overcrowded conditions in state prisons. But he said he felt several more major prisons will have to be built in coming years to completely solve the problem.

He noted there are 13,700 people in Michigan prisons, or "2,200 more than we have beds for." Kime also labeled the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson, the world's largest walled prison, a "monstrosity."

Kime, 46, has served as deputy director of the department's program bureau since January, 1968. He began employment with the department in 1966 as a research director. He has also served as a consultant to correctional systems studies in New York, Alabama, and California.

COUNCIL 'NITPICKING' CHARGED Hartford Police Chief Resigns!

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer
With VIVIAN DEMORROW
Hartford Correspondent

HARTFORD — Hartford Police Chief Lee Spencer has submitted his resignation, effective Oct. 8.

Spencer said he submitted his resignation to the city clerk yesterday in a letter addressed to Mayor Wayne Nelson and the city council.

In the letter, Spencer said the reason for his resignation was due to a "severe violation of personal and professional principles of police administration" by the council and police committee.

The council Monday night approved a general operational policy for the police chief, rescinding the department's previous policy, which Spencer felt "was one of the best in the state."

Spencer said that "Under this new policy, I have been severely crippled in functioning as a police leader. It has totally disrupted what I feel to be good administrative practices in the department."

Spencer said the old policy "spelled out" everything, and the new one "leaves out things I feel were of such importance to me."

Citing a few of the differences, Spencer said the old policy had a provision concerning the "shoot, don't shoot" philosophy, and the new policy does not. Hartford's old policy, in essence said an officer could fire his weapon only to save the life of another or himself. It did not allow for a warning shot.

Also, he said under the new policy, no provisions were provided for the police reserve program. He said that program is now in limbo. Hartford has six full-time officers, besides Spencer.

The matter of overtime pay, also was not covered in the new police policy, Spencer said.

The council approved the new policy by a 6-1 vote, with Mayor Wayne Nelson casting the lone dissenting vote.

Mayor Nelson said he regrets Spencer's decision to leave, adding he thought Spencer had done a good job. "He brought stability and an increasing professionalism to the department," Nelson said. "The stability was most important because it ended the revolving door turnover of patrolmen, a situation which existed before Spencer came here."

"Spencer was a victim of the pettiest type of nitpicking by some members of the council," Chief Spencer said he would consider withdrawing his resignation if the policy matter could be "resolved and clarified to everyone's satisfaction."

Spencer, 41, was hired as police chief July 1, 1976, after the council in January, 1975, voted not to renew the contract of Harold Frye Sr. as police chief.

Spencer was a Niles patrolman from April, 1960 until June, 1973, when he was hired as Howard township police chief in Cass county. A 1954 graduate of Buchanan high school he has also attended Lake Michigan College, Oakland Community College, and Western Michigan University, Michigan State University and Indiana University, studying various police administrative and law enforcement courses.

Allegan Board Clears Way For Prison

ALLEGAN — The Allegan County Board of Commissioners voted 10-2 last night to ratify an out-of-court settlement clearing the way for the state to convert the St. Augustine Seminary near Saugatuck into a prison.

The agreement was worked out by a citizens group opposing the location of the prison and the state.

Under the agreement, the county or another party could buy the site along Lake Michigan after 4½ years. It was reached last week and the state House of Representatives has already scheduled consideration of a bill appropriating $4.2 million for the state purchase. The citizens group, the Prison Action Committee, had sought to block state purchase of the land through a lawsuit. The settlement would cancel the suit.

Board members who voted against ratification of the agreement were Robert Drew, Fennville, and Louis Ter Avast, Allegan. Voting in favor were commissioners Vernon Sill, South Haven; Walter Bray, Jr., Hamilton; John Vogelzang, Holland; H. Kirke White, Jr., Hamilton; James Rolfe, Allegan; Leland Buck, Hopkins; Ralph Sylstra, Wayland; Anthony Wystra, Martin; Flora Moore, Oshtemo; and Arthur Popp, Plainville. Action on the prison settlement came during a meeting called to receive departmental requests for $572,563 expected by the county in federal revenue sharing funds in 1977-78.

Twelve county departments and the Allegan County Resource Development Committee presented the board with requests for some $338,000 of the sharing funds. The funds are for Oct. 1 through Sept. 30, 1978. According to the board, most of the remaining $233,000 not requested by departments, has been already allocated for long-term county projects.

Largest of the requests came from the county road commission for $100,000. The board itself requested $77,000 for a special projects fund. Other departments requesting funds were the sheriff's department, $37,000 for equipment; health department, $19,735, to help finance a home care program for the elderly; and the treasurer's department, $20,000, to increase computer capabilities. Other requests totaled about $44,500 from the other departments.

Last night's public hearing on the requests or fund allocations was the first of two hearings. The board agreed that the final hearing will be held in conjunction with the final county budget hearing on Oct. 25. The board indicated that the requests for revenue sharing funds would be treated as budget requests and considered as such. Final adoption of the budget will include the revenue sharing funds for the various departments.

NEPOTISM CHARGED IN COUNTY HIRING

Van Buren Settles Discrimination Suit

BY DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Van Buren county commissioners settled a five-year-old discrimination suit and heard charges that nepotism was often involved in county hiring practices last night.

The board voted unanimously to make a $1,000 settlement to Allen Mingo of Covert in exchange for Mingo's agreement to dismiss a suit against the county charging he was denied a job as a sheriff's deputy in 1972 because he is black.

The Michigan Civil Rights Commission had ruled in 1975 that Mingo had been denied a job because of his race and ordered that he be hired as a deputy with back pay.

The county was in the process of appealing the order in Van Buren Circuit Court when last night's agreement was reached. A resolution approving the settlement stressed that there has been no admission on the part of the county that there was discrimination.

Sheriff Richard E. Stump has maintained throughout various legal proceedings that Mingo was not hired because he was not as well qualified as other applicants.

Prosecutor Ward S. Hamlin, Jr., said the $1,000 figure was merely a negotiated amount. He said that had Mingo prevailed in the case, the county would have had to pay some $14,000 in back wages, the difference between what Mingo would have made as a deputy and what he has made

Coloma Offers Family Living Class Preview

COLOMA — A creative family living course as been added to the Coloma schools' adult education program, according to Victor Wier, high school principal. A free introductory preview of the course is slated for Thursday, Sept. 29, beginning at 7 p.m.

The last day for enrollment in any of the adult education classes is Thursday, Oct. 5, Wier added.

in other jobs he has held since the suit was filed. Mingo is currently a Covert township police officer.

The resolution noted that the agreement was made to put an end to further protracted litigation.

On the hiring, the board voted 8-2 to approve a new accountant's position in the county clerk's office, touching off the charge of nepotism.

The person selected for the job, Mrs. Margo Anderson, Lawton, is the daughter of county clerk Charles E. MacDonald, who did the hiring.

Both commissioners who voted against the creation of the position, Daniel Skarritt (D-Bangor) and James Wellington (R-LaCrosse), said after the meeting that their votes were made to protest what they termed as "nepotism" in the courthouse.

Votes on both the Mingo case and accountant's position were taken after the board reconvened following a 30-minute closed executive session. The original motion to go into executive session stated that the purpose was to discuss the Mingo case. But after the board resumed its open session, it was amended to add "and other personnel matters."

Skarritt said after last night's meeting that he was concerned about a "number of instances" where relatives have been employed by department heads. He termed the situation as being "very demoralizing" to other county workers.

But when pressed to name other specific examples of nepotism, he declined.

Voting to add the position were Edwin Twitchell, Shirley Jackson, Ruth Lytle, Wesley Wickert, Gerald Rendell, and George Fritz. Linda Sparks was absent.

The vote to create the position was followed by another motion to set the pay for the job at $8,726, rather than the $9,136 called for in the original motion. The pay motion was passed 5-3, with Wellington, Fritz, and Jackson voting against.

In other areas, the board approved a budget for the county's third quarter share of federal anti-recession funds totaling $33,626. A total of $6,938 was earmarked to pay for a tuberculosis screening program conducted by the health department earlier this year, and $26,888 to help meet a deficit in the child care fund.

Rendell said that deficit is currently about $54,000, noting that the amount other counties charge Van Buren for lodging juveniles has almost doubled in the last year. The child care fund also pays for care in foster homes.

The board also extended Deloma Vandernest as acting equalization director for another six months at an annual salary of $12,000. Once she has attained a level III state certification as a property appraiser she will be appointed as regular director, according to the board.

Mrs. Vandernest assumed the acting director's position last July when Equalization Director Richard Raymond resigned. The board also voted last night to pay her an additional $500 for "a job well done" during the past three months. During that period, she had only been receiving her past salary as deputy equalization director.

A state program which allows farmers to receive a tax break if they agree to keep their land in agricultural production was outlined in the board by A. Robert (Bob) Earl, county extension director.

Earl said that in some cases the tax breaks could amount to thousands of dollars. He also predicted that because of the complexity of the rules governing the program, there will be a number of "headaches" for local bodies in checking to see that applications meeting eligibility rules.

The board approved a bid of $1,024 by Kensel Giddings, Paw Paw, for remodeling work in the microfilm room in the Register of Deeds office, and $815 to purchase five scanners and related equipment for sheriff's department cars. Stump said the scanners will enable deputies to be in constant communication with other area police agencies.

Approval was also given to a plan redesignating space to various departments in the courthouse. A number of offices will be changed when work on the second floor of the courthouse annex is completed in the next few weeks.

Water Workers Honored

KALAMAZOO — Some 85 employees of public water systems in the state, including eight from southwestern Michigan, were honored today by the Michigan Section of the American Water Works Association and the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Each of those honored was presented with the Edward Dunbar Rich Award at the section's meeting here. The award is presented annually to those in the public water supply field who have contributed 25 or more years of meritorious and faithful service to their profession.

Recipients of the award from this area were: Ora Williams Jr., St. Joseph; Earl Perry, Bangor; Ellen R. Heyn, Bridgman; George Hinz and Claire Mills, both of South Haven; Donald Huston, Dowagiac; Jerome Amiel and Horace Crucker, both of Niles.

DIRECTOR: Richard Kincaid, 26, Galesburg, will begin new job as Van Buren county's first personnel and planning director Monday. He comes to post from job as counselor at private employment agency in Kalamazoo. Post pays $12,000.

Cass Board To Fill Vacancy

CASSOPOLIS — The Cass County Board of Commissioners will temporarily fill a board vacancy by appointment at its October 11 meeting until a special election can be scheduled.

Herman Saltz, chairman of the board, said he has received the resignation of Raymond Tutwiler, Dowagiac, commissioner from the second district. Tutwiler has been transferred from the area. Tutwiler has served on the commission since Jan. 1.

Saltz said the seat must be filled by election because Tutwiler has served less than half of his two-year term.

Saltz asked that anyone wishing to be appointed should attend a work session of the board set for Oct. 6 at 7 p.m.

No date for a special election has been set, but two men have already announced their intention of running for the seat. They are Gary Weaver and Richard Niess, both of Dowagiac.

Should more than two from one party file for the seat, a primary election will have to be scheduled, Saltz said.

APPOINTED: Robert Hemington is newest member of Board of Education. He was appointed earlier this month to serve until June school elections. He replaces Mrs. Alvin Johnson who resigned for health reasons. Hemington is a farmer, is married and has three school-age children.

Here's Play-By-Play On Race For Plastic Bottles

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — You might have thought plastic beverage bottles were banned this month by the Food and Drug Administration because their ingredients of the plastic might be linked to cancerous lesions.

You are wrong. Industry sources expect about a quarter billion of them to be on store shelves by the end of the year, and estimate that two years from now the figure will be more than two billion.

The explanation lies in the plastic. The FDA on Sept. 20 banned acrylonitrile, but it said nothing about polyester. The latter has a different chemical makeup, while presenting no different appearance to the untrained eye.

The FDA decision means that acrylonitrile bottles must be off the market by the end of the year, although spokesmen for that agency say all such bottles may already have been removed from circulation.

That might be the end of one scene, but it's where the play really gets interesting — where a cast of characters interlaces: Coca-Cola, Pepsi-Cola, chemical companies, a big tire concern, the liquor and textile industries, environmentalists, the stock market and, as they say, many, many more.

The curtain lifts with the soft drink companies seeking a safe, shatterproof, easily recyclable bottle. At first, failure; the economics weren't favorable. Then the trend to larger, "family size" bottles made plastics feasible.

Pepsi-Cola chose polyester. Coca-Cola chose acrylonitrile. Pepsi won, you might say, while Coke lost. Pepsi already has introduced its product in 11 states. Coca-Cola shares fell a half-point immediately after the decision.

With what some industry sources say is amazing speed, Coca-Cola adjusted to the new situation and now plans to introduce its own polyester bottle Oct. 3 and that's where the big tire company rolls on stage.

Goodyear has been reinforcing its tires with polyester cord since 1963, and for even longer has been making the resin for those boilable vegetable pouches you might have used. It is the pre-eminent polyester resin maker, supplying Amoco Chemical, Continental Can and Owens-Illinois.

Without stressing the obvious, let it be said that Goodyear was very happy to accept the new business. The textile industry, you see, is said to be awash in some synthetic fibers, mainly polyester. A new market was welcome.

Meanwhile, other liquid products manufacturers have become interested. Goodyear says a great deal of interest has been expressed by the liquor industry. Same with beer companies, although FDA clearance has not yet been forthcoming.

The environmentalists during this time have been standing just behind the curtains, observing it all but as yet not offering any conclusive judgments. The polyester bottle, they note with suspicion, is a throwaway. Throwaway's litter.

Goodyear says that won't be so. The 32-ounce and 64-ounce bottles for which polyester is being used aren't the kind you purchase along the roadside, it says. And, it stresses, they're recyclable.

Let's not understand the significance of that. Thomas Minter, Goodyear executive vice president (research and development), intones these unforgettable lines:

"The polyester bottle you drink from today could be the pants you wear tomorrow."

A show-stealer, he will not be stopped: "Just 12 half-gallon bottles could provide enough fabric for a pair of pants. Add 18 more and you've got a vest and jacket to match."

Including production costs, he continues, recycled polyester is considerably less expensive than the virgin material. But why recycle at all — why not affix a deposit charge to the purchase and have the bottles returned?

Out of the question, he replies. The purification process demands reheating, and when you reheat a polyester bottle it loses its shape. And so, for the time being, the polyester curtain falls. But there might be more. Monsanto, which makes acrylonitrile, declares the FDA decision "unwarranted." And that could mean a courtroom scene to follow.

The share received by 20th Century, known as film rentals, was more than $100 million, they said. "Star Wars," now playing in 908 theaters, was released 17 weeks ago. The film will be released overseas in 1978.

Congress Votes

BY CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON — Votes of area members of Congress on key roll calls for the week ending September 23, were:

SENATE
Natural Gas — By a 46-32 vote, the Senate failed to table, and thus kill, an amendment that would end federal regulation of prices for new natural gas. The gas deregulation amendment would lift federal price controls on new gas found on-shore, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1977, and end controls over new offshore gas after five years.

Proponents of killing the amendment argued that deregulation would drive up consumer prices for gas, fail to increase gas supplies and give gas producers excessive profits. They preferred President Carter's plan to continue federal regulation, while boosting the ceiling price allowed for new gas sales.

Opponents of killing the deregulation amendment argued that ending federal price controls would result in more gas being produced which would ease America's energy crisis. Though conceding gas prices would rise, they argued that consumers would pay less for the extra gas than they would pay for other fuels. Finally, they said, federal price controls were contrary to America's free enterprise system.

Voting to kill deregulation amendment: Riegle (D).
Voting not to kill deregulation amendment: Griffin (R).

Medical Coverage for Abortions — The Senate voted, 44-41, to table, and thus kill, an amendment that would have allowed employers to exclude elective abortions from company medical and disability plans. The vote was on a bill to prohibit discrimination on the basis of pregnancy or related medical conditions.

Members who voted to kill the amendment argued that exclusion of elective abortions from company medical plans would be discriminatory. It would allow employers to refuse to hire or promote women who had a history of prior abortions, they said.

Members who voted not to kill the amendment argued that the federal government should not force employers to pay for abortions, except when the life of the mother was threatened.

Voting to kill amendment excluding elective abortion coverage: Riegle (D).
Not voting: Griffin (R).

HOUSE

Breeder Reactor — By a 162-246 vote, the House rebuffed President Carter's recommendation to terminate the planned Clinch River plutonium breeder reactor at Oak Ridge, Tenn. The vote was on an amendment to include only $33-million in the fiscal 1978 Energy Research and Development Administration authorization bill for the purpose of phasing out the project.

Supporters of terminating the breeder reactor project argued that the estimated demand for nuclear energy had declined dramatically in the five years since the project was begun. They warned of the potential danger of world peace that an expanding supply of plutonium, suitable for conversion into nuclear weapons, could pose. Curtailing development of plutonium breeder reactors was necessary to demonstrate the United States' commitment to discouraging similar programs abroad and to halting the international proliferation of nuclear weapons, they said.

Opponents of the project argued that the potential for nuclear proliferation already exists and that other nations will develop plutonium breeder reactors regardless of what the U.S. chooses to do.

Voting to terminate breeder reactor project: Blanchard (D), Conyers (D), Stockman (R).

Voting not to terminate breeder reactor: Brown (R), Wright (Majority Leader), Rhodes (Minority Leader).

Not voting: Vander Jagt (R).

JOHN P. ROCHE

A Word Edgewise

If in 1938 an innocent policymaker looked at a map of Czechoslovakia, he would probably have sympathized with the Sudeten Germans, who were demanding incorporation into Hitler's Reich. He would have condemned the stupidity of the mapmakers at the treaty of Versailles who had included this German enclave in the new Czech state, felt Herr Hitler had a legitimate grievance, and, in short, supported the Munich "settlement."

This is hardly hypothetical. We forget now that the Munich Pact received enormous approval, not just from the French and British people who wanted to avoid war but also from learned authorities and statesmen. As a youthful Norman Thomas socialist and anti-war enthusiast, I recall winning several debates in the late '30s by excoriating the stupidities of Versailles and emphasizing the "legitimate aspirations of the German people."

With juvenile scorn I rejected the counsel of a professor-friend who argued the Germans did have just complaints about Versailles, but the Nazis were international criminals with no interest in historical equity. In the view of this "war-monger"

(as I foolishly considered him), Hitler wanted justification for aggression, not remedies for the errors of the past.

Maybe I've overcompensated for that historical amnesia, but the experience certainly cured me of the notion — currently the Washington vogue — that history begin the day I learned about a problem, or the day Jimmy Carter launched a born-again foreign policy. Admittedly every president, if he so desires, has to overcome the internal guidance systems of the foreign affairs bureaucracy, which too often suffers from what Søren Kierkegaard called "the paralysis of knowledge." But surely the answer is not to encourage activist auto-hypnosis, notably the delusion that if you treat a gangster like a democratic statesman diligently enough, he will be transformed.

Since the Middle East question is back on the front burner, let us explore a few historical dimensions of the problem. First, the president must ask the right question of all his experts, namely, are the Arab confrontation states in search of a genuine peace settlement with Israel? Or, are they utilizing negotiations as a weapons system in a long-range campaign to destroy the Jewish state? The president can permit no wishful thinking. If the conclusion is somber, Mr. Carter cannot say, "I refuse to believe that because it means war is inevitable." His proper response should be, "What can we do in the event of war?"

Second, the president should inquire, "Wouldn't majority rule in the Kingdom of Jordan create an instant Palestinian Arab homeland?" King Hussein's Bedouin base constitutes at most a quarter of the population; the remainder is Palestinian. If the King encouraged voting on the Israeli model, he would, of course, be short a job, but that is irrelevant. If majority rule in Jordan would solve the question of a Palestinian "entity," we could put Hussein on welfare.

Third, the president, turning to history, might ask, "Since the Jordanian army occupied the West Bank, and the Egyptians Gaza, for 20 years before the 1967 War, why didn't they establish these areas as a self-governing Palestinian entity?" If some diligent FSO-2 breaks through the present time barrier, which seems to be 1967, he will reply that both Jordan and Egypt wanted the Palestinians as permanent refugees, as a perpetual source of friction between Israel and its neighbors.

Indeed, contrary to journalistic usage, Jordan has no fundamental right to the West Bank or Jerusalem. They were occupied by the British-led Arab Legion after the Arabs refused to accept the UN 1948 Partition. Similarly the Jordanians were driven out in 1967 after Israel, ironically, tried to persuade Hussein to stay out of the war. International lawyers can argue on residual sovereignty until the end of time, but in the real world what Jordan took by the sword she lost by the sword.

Finally, the president should investigate the right of the Palestinian Liberation Front to pose as a quasi-sovereign. Who elected the Palestinian National Council? Are we dealing with a bona fide liberation group like, say, the First Continental Congress? Or, are we, as in Paris, 1968, making contact with a dummy Liberation Front which Hans scraped when it outlived its usefulness?

BUT OAKLAND KILLER'S DIFFERENT Child-Tempters Fall Into Pattern

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — After a five-month study, the Oakland County Homicide Task Force has found a pattern in attempts to lure children. But it has not found the person responsible for the kidnap-murder of four county youngsters.

The task force, created in the aftermath of the unsolved child killings, launched a survey of lures in six Oakland County communities last April because investigators believe the killer approached other children.

The task force, which released results of the survey this week, studied 782 incidents in which adults approached children and tried to lure them into accompanying them. The task force found the method of operation of the Oakland County child killer differed significantly from the composite found in the study.

For example, the study concluded most attempts to lure children occurred in the spring — March or April — between the hours of noon and 6 p.m. Only one of the four victims was picked up during those months. The others were abducted during December, January and February.

The study concluded that Sunday was the day least frequently cited by children for attempted pickups. However, two of the murdered children were abducted on Sundays.

The children in the study reported when a car is involved in a pick-up, it is usually a late-model two-door coupe and over 25 per cent of the reported incidents involved a blue car.

A blue American Motors Gremlin figures in the probe of the abduction and murder of the latest victim, 11-year-old Timothy King of Birmingham.

His body was found in a roadside ditch last March, six days after he vanished. He had been smothered, an autopsy showed. The study found only about 10 per cent of the incidents involed forcible abduction. Attempts to beguile a child were used in almost 90 per cent of the cases. Investigators believe the Oakland County child killer somehow lured victims into accompanying him voluntarily.

The study surveyed public and private schools in Berkeley, Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Ferndale, Royal Oak and Troy. All four of the murdered children lived near the Woodward Avenue corridor.

Police, Board Agree To Talk

COLOMA — Coloma Township Supervisor Rodney Krieger said in a prepared statement that township policemen had agreed last night to work with the township board in resolving departmental problems.

The statement was issued after a three-hour closed meeting aimed at working out an approach to an 11-page list of grievances submitted by the officers previously.

According to the statement, the officers and board agreed the problems could best be settled by a redefinition of job responsibilities and improvement of lines of communication.

The statement said the rewriting of job descriptions would be the responsibility of ranking department officers. They would need concurrence from the board.

The board tentatively set Nov. 1 as the date to complete the required work, according to the statement.

Details of the grievances were not released. It was reported earlier, however, that a demand for the resignation of Police Chief Robert Cottler had accompanied the list of grievances.

Krieger previously termed the situation the result of "working conditions."

The force is made up of 10 employees, including four dispatchers.

Settlement Fails In PBB Trial

CADILLAC, Mich. (AP) — Declaring efforts to settle Michigan's first PBB trial out of court a failure, a judge announced today the lengthy trial will resume Tuesday.

Westford County Circuit Court Judge William Peterson made the announcement in a three-sentence statement released by his office.

The judge said only that mediation efforts have "proven unsuccessful" and that the mediator, retired Circuit Court Judge Raymond Smith, "has advised me that there is no reason to believe that further efforts at mediation would be justified."

Peterson ordered mediation efforts in late July on the case he is hearing and 82 other cases involving claims of damage from contamination with the toxic fire-retardant chemical.

Coloma Reschedules Hearing On Salary Increase Proposal

COLOMA — A new date for a public hearing on a proposal to hike the salaries of elected and appointed Coloma city officials was announced yesterday morning.

Coloma City Clerk Mrs. Patricia Beezley said the original hearing date set for Monday, Oct. 10 by the commission Monday night, has been rescheduled for Monday, Oct. 24 at 8:30 p.m. The hearing will be conducted by the commission.

According to Mrs. Beezley, 20 days must elapse between the first reading of the salary proposal and the public hearing.

Interim Salary Boosts OKd For SMC Teachers

DOWAGIAC — The Southwestern Michigan College Board of Trustees last night adopted interim policies on hours and working conditions, basically the same as in the expired contract.

Negotiating teams for the college and the Southwestern Michigan College Education Association (SMCEA) have been meeting for several months without agreement on a new master contract. The old two-year pact expired last May.

The interim salary schedule calls for across-the-board salary hikes of $877 annually for each faculty member.

In addition, the board adopted interim policies on hours and working conditions, basically the same as in the expired contract.

The board authorized its negotiators, David Briegel and Wesley Muth to continue negotiating with teacher representatives on a new contract. The SMCEA represents 41 instructors under the master agreement.

In other action, the board approved the employment of 83 part-time instructors, mostly for special evening classes.

HEW Plan Would Slash Tenth Of Hospital Beds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has proposed standards aimed at eliminating one of every 10 general hospital beds in the nation while improving the care of patients.

The proposed regulation, the first national standard set for hospitals, is part of a national plan to bring soaring hospital costs and growth under control.

The plan, developed by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, would limit the number of general hospital beds in a community to four per 1,000 population and would require hospitals to maintain an average occupancy rate of 80 per cent.

This would mean about 100,000 of the current 950,000 hospital beds would have to be phased out by the time the standards are fully implemented in 1984.

It also would set frequency standards for certain specialized medical procedures so that only hospitals that regularly perform such procedures could offer them.

The standards would require that:

—A metropolitan hospital would have to perform at least 2,000 deliveries a year in order to maintain an obstetrical unit.

—An institution that provides open heart surgery should perform at least 200 such procedures each year.

—Hospital units offering radiation therapy to cancer patients should be limited to one for every 150,000 people or should serve at least 450 new patients each year.

There should be at least 20 beds in a hospital pediatric unit and such units should maintain an average annual occupancy rate of 65 to 80 per cent.

The final regulations will be issued in December or January.

Building, Zoning Fees Formally OK'd By Sodus

SODUS — The Sodus Township Board last night formally adopted a building permit fee schedule and a zoning fee permit schedule.

The board originally had given its approval to the building permit fees in July, but on advice of Robert Yampolsky, township attorney, the board gave its formal okay last night, according to Virginia Palis, township clerk.

The new fee schedule is graduated with no fee for building projects estimated to cost less than $250. The new schedule has a minimum fee of $5 for projects between $251 and $500. A base fee charge of $619 would be required for projects of $500,000.

The ordinance setting zoning permit fees was approved unanimously. The schedule sets fees for mobile home and migrant housing permit renewals, $2, same as under the old schedule, and sets fees for special hearings.

Those include public hearings on zoning matters, $40 per hearing, up from the previous fee of $10. Requests for public hearings of the planning commission held during its regular session will cost $40, the same as under the previous schedule, and special meetings of the township board, planning commission or board of zoning appeals, held other than at regularly scheduled times, will be $150, also the same as previously. The fees are to be paid by people making the requests for the hearings.

TO THE CUSTOMERS OF MICHIGAN GAS UTILITIES COMPANY

On August 12, 1977, Michigan Gas Utilities Company (the Company) filed an application with the Michigan Public Service Commission (the Commission) in case No. U-5527 requesting authority to place into effect a gas curtailment procedure.

The Company is a Michigan corporation with principal offices at 889 South Telegraph Road, Monroe, Michigan and is engaged in the purchase, transmission, distribution and sale of natural gas to approximately 92,000 customers in the southern and western portions of the Lower Peninsula of the State of Michigan.

The Company represents that a shortage of natural gas has made it necessary for the Company's pipeline suppliers to substantially curtail deliveries of natural gas to all of their customers, including the Company, and that it believes that curtailments of gas deliveries from its pipeline suppliers will increase over those currently in effect.

The Company states that it believes that establishment of procedures whereby gas service to its customers may be curtailed in order to maintain a balance between gas requirements and gas supply is necessary and, therefore, the company proposes to adopt a gas curtailment procedure as a new Rule 21 to its Rules, Regulations and Rate Schedules, M.P.S.C. No. 5. The gas curtailment procedures proposed by the Company establish five curtailment categories of gas service and give highest priority of end use to residential and small commercial customers.

The Company further represents that if its proposed curtailment plan is approved it will make necessary a change in Rule 3, part E, "Limitations of Service", in its Rules, Regulation and Rates Schedules, M.P.S.C. No. 5, in order to make said rule consistent with its proposed new Rule 21.

The Company further represents that with the exception of its interruptible gas rate (First Revised Sheet No. 7.5) customers, it does not presently anticipate curtailments under its proposed new Rule 21 in the near future but it cannot predict when a worsening in its gas supply may make it necessary to initiate such curtailments.

Therefore, the Company requests Commission approval of its proposed new Rule 21 and authority to revise its existing Rule 3 to conform to the provision of its proposed new Rule 21.

Jurisdiction is pursuant to 1909 PA 300, as amended, MCLA 462.2 et seq.; 1919 PA 419, as amended, MCLA 460.51 et seq.; 1939 PA 3, as amended, MCLA 460.1 et seq.; 1969 PA 306, as amended, MCLA 24.201 et seq.; and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 1954 Administrative Code, Supplement No. 54, R 460.11 et seq.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that:

A. A public hearing will be held at 9:30 a.m. on October 12, 1977 in the offices of the Commission Mercantile Building, 6545 Mercantile Way, Lansing, Michigan 48910, for the purpose of determining whether the authority sought should be granted. Any interested parties may attend the hearing and participate, subject to the provisions of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure.

B. Any party seeking to intervene, in accordance with Rule 11 of the Rules of Practice and Procedure Before the Commission, shall file with the Commission, on or before October 7, 1977, an original and 12 copies of petition to intervene, together with proof of service upon the Company.

Subparagraph (2) of said Rule 11 provides as follows:

"(2) A petition to intervene shall set out clearly and concisely the facts supporting the petitioner's alleged right or interest, the grounds of the proposed intervention, and the position of the petitioner in the proceeding, so as fully and completely to advise the parties and the Commission of the specific issues of fact or law to be raised or controverted." (Emphasis added)

The Commission will require strict compliance with the above-quoted rule.

Father To Face Kidnaping Trial

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A former Lawrence man yesterday was ordered to stand trial on a charge of kidnaping his own daughter.

James Robert Ray, 29, of Atlanta, Ga., was bound over to Van Buren Circuit Court following Seventh District Court preliminary examination on a charge of kidnaping a child under 14.

Ray is accused of taking his daughter, Katherine, then four, from the custody of his ex-wife during the 1974 Thanksgiving holidays and failing to return her.

He was arrested on a fugitive warrant earlier this month in Georgia, where he and his daughter had been living since 1974. Authorities said Ray was tracked down by tracing school records in Atlanta, where Katherine was enrolled.

His wife, who has since remarried and whose name now is Dorothy New, testified in court yesterday that after she and Ray were divorced, she was granted custody of the child. Ray was given weekend visiting privileges, she said.

Defense Atty. Kelly Page of Bloomingdale argued yesterday that the statute under which Ray is charged was never intended to be used in custody matters. He said that while Ray might be guilty of violating the court's custody order, he had never been in any trouble with the law before and had taken good care of his daughter over the last three years.

Ray remained jailed in lieu of $5,000 bond pending circuit court arraignment.

In another case, Michael Koshar, 18, 525 St. Joseph, Lawrence, was sentenced by visiting Judge Kenneth Fricke of Kalamazoo to serve 24 days in jail and two years probation on a reduced charge of simple assault.

Koshar had originally been charged with felonious assault in connection with a complaint by Trooper Laurie MacDonald that a man pointed a .22-caliber rifle at him in Lawrence on Sept. 21.

Koshar had pleaded guilty to the reduced charge.

Five Men Head To Trial Court

By JOE HERMAN
Staff Writer

Five men were bound over to Circuit Court on felony charges after waiving examination in Berrien Fifth District Court yesterday.

Curtis James VanLoon, 19, of 421 East Red Arrow Highway, and Fredrick R. Buysinger, 18, waived examination on charges of breaking and entering the St. Joseph Catholic Church in Watervliet on Aug. 24. VanLoon and Buysinger were returned to jail after failing to post bonds of $10,000 and $20,000 respectively.

Craig Joseph VanLoon, 18, also of 421 East Red Arrow Highway, waived examination on a charge of breaking and entering the Don Young Insurance Agency, Watervliet, on Dec. 11, 1976. He also is charged along with his brother and Buysinger in connection with the church break-in. He failed to post $10,000 bond and was returned to jail.

Nathaniel Leon Smart, 36, St. Louis, Mo., and Jess Jones, 47, Milwaukee, Wis., both waived examination before Judge John T. Hammond on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property over $100. They were arrested Sept. 15 in Chikaming Township in a 1978 Lincoln Continental allegedly stolen from an auto dealership in Wauwatosa, Wis. Both men returned to jail after they failed to post $25,000 bond.

Robert Mark Weir, 18, 1121 Lake Blvd., St. Joseph, demanded examination on a charge of possession of cocaine with intent to deliver yesterday morning in Baroda Township. Weir posted $1,500 bond and was released to await hearing.

Sentenced Tuesday to pay fine and costs of $125 for petty larceny by false impersonation was Kathy Brewster, of Lakeshore Trailer Village. She was accused of claiming a wallet that had been found was her husband's when actually the wallet was owned by R. J. Hoover, of Bridgman.

The wallet had been turned in at the Bridgman post office where Mrs. Brewster appeared claiming her husband had lost it. Postmaster Joseph Lozeau said he didn't know how much cash the wallet contained.

In other District court cases yesterday:

Jeffrey Jennings and Tammy Whalen, both 17, of Chicago, and William Reed, 18, Markham, Ill., pleaded guilty to charges of receiving and concealing stolen property under $100 on Sept. 15, after being arrested in Benton Township in a car reported stolen from Chicago.

Jennings and Reed were also sentenced to pay fines and costs of $300 or one year in jail. Whalen received $500 or one year additional sentence.

Willie Stemm, 30, 812 Main St., St. Joseph, was sentenced to pay fines and costs of $100 for issuing a non-sufficient funds check over $100 — $325.70 — to Main Street Auto service station in St. Joseph on June 29.

Marion Rae Esalhorst, 37, 3004 Millardale Road, Sodus Township, was sentenced to pay $140 for impaired driving, reduced from driving under the most daily felt of the gruesome accounts of young boys being molested and all too often murdered to keep them quiet. Only the Lord knows how many others have remained silent because of fear and intimidation.

Your dictionary only defines what a Christian ought to be in this instance and not what they really are, Mr. Bolin. No one can know or understand what a Christian really is until he becomes one himself. Not until then are we able to hate sin but still love the sinner.

Sorry you didn't bother to see and hear Anita Bryant on television. She very ably demonstrated that it was her love for all people in general, and her deep concern for the souls of these people in particular that prompted her to go on.

Bigots, Mr. Bolin, don't make the world a better place to live in. You know that as well as I do. Christian participation and influence has made this the greatest nation in history. Call them hypocrites if you insist, but that doesn't alter the facts.

Your plea for continued freedom of speech and belief applies to whom Mr. Bolin? Would you have us to believe that right extends only to you and the ungodly? Should God and all those who represent Him as defenders of His holy laws be silenced? You give the weak excuse that you are not necessarily for the homosexual. Who then are you for? If we don't stand for something, we fall for anything that comes along.

Would you come out of your neutral corner if one of your little ones was molested, nudged or murdered?

I wonder what kind of courage it takes to snap at the heels of a woman who is out fighting a man's battle? Too bad some of the equal rights group don't have the same moral motives in mind.

If, in conclusion this, too, sounds like a hate letter, don't do yourself the injustice of not trying to find out what the true facts are. The family of God is not in the hate business. Any one of them, myself included, would be more than willing to spend whatever time is necessary to help anyone to see his need of salvation in Christ. He alone, and only He, can change our disposition, our desires and most important, our soul's eternal destiny.

posure of our intelligence and security agencies? Sure Mr. Hoover may have been overzealous, and he made some enemies, but he had to do his job. Six Presidents praised his work. I think that he was a great man and most Americans still feel this way.

John J. Kearney, an FBI Special Agent honorably retired after 25 years' service in 1972 was indicted on April 7 in New York. He was charged with setting up wiretaps and ordering mail openings on members of the radical Weathermen. At that time he was supervising Squad 47, a 60-agent special force specifically directed to investigate that terrorist bombing organization. Twenty-six of its members were on the FBI's Most Wanted List in 1972. Why drag this faithful agent through the mud of indictment and trial just because he was doing his duty to protect the country. Kearney carried out his duties, using the same techniques employed by the FBI and other security agencies for decades. These methods had been approved by Presidents and Attorneys General and no court had ever held them to be improper, unlawful, or unconstitutional.

Senator Pat Moynihan stated last month that Russian spies are using electronic gear in American cities to monitor their phone conversations by tuning into microwave frequencies. Our government is showing a remarkable tolerance to Soviet KGB agents snooping on American soil, violating the rights of American citizens on a grandiose scale. At least the FBI is on our side.

Show them you want protection and give your appreciation for their good work. Send your letters, telegrams, and phone calls today, supporting the FBI and Special Agent John J. Kearney to the White House (202-456-1414), Attorney General Bell's office (202-739-2001), and the offices of House and Senate members.

CHEATERS GET LICENSES State Doesn't Check Up

DETROIT (AP) — Six out of the next hundred cars you see may be driven by someone without insurance, state officials say.

And the state can't prove they're lying when they come in for licenses and say they have insurance. The state doesn't check.

The Insurance Bureau in the state Department of Commerce estimated that 280,000 motorists had no insurance last year. That would be 6 percent of the state's 4.8 million registered vehicles.

The estimate is not without challenge. Two years ago the Secretary of State's office estimated the uninsured at 3 percent after a survey of its own. Deputy Secretary Norman Berkowitz said another survey was under way this year and, "Our guess would be it (the proportion without insurance) would be very minimal."

Driving an uninsured vehicle is punishable by loss of license and registration, a fine of up to $500 and a year in jail. State police issued 21,400 citations last year for driving without insurance.

Under the no-fault insurance law, according to Chief Assistant State Secretary Walter C. Elliot, a driver without insurance is "gambling and cheating himself."

"If such a driver has an accident with someone insured, the insured driver is protected against his own injury losses, property damage to others and lawsuits, even though the other driver is not similarly protected."

And policyholders pay more because insurance companies don't get premiums from some drivers.

No-fault rates have been increasing 10 to 15 percent a year for three years and state officials fear an increase in insurance fraud when new plates come out in November.

Insurance agents and law enforcement officials say there are several ways for drivers to get around the requirement of insurance:

—Buy a phony certificate of insurance form, often from a street peddler near a license office.

—Falsely claim on a mailed

FEA Sees No Gas Shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Administration, citing expected normal weather and increased conservation, says there should be no wide-scale repetition of last winter's severe natural gas shortages.

Severe cold weather in the winter of 1976-77 increased gas shortages almost 40 per cent over the previous winter, causing the temporary shutdown of thousands of factories and businesses and the layoff of hundreds of thousands of workers.

plate application that the car is insured.

The secretary of state's office makes a few spot checks with insurance companies, but "doesn't have the ability or the staff to cross-check insurance claims with companies. That would be a 'tremendously expensive operation,'" said Harry Brewington, director of the Bureau of Driver and Vehicle Services.
